

Minutemen drop two to Quinte Precast

On Thursday night, Sept. 7th, the Madoc Minutemen suffered their second defeat of the week at the hands of the Quinte Precast team from Stirling. In last week's play, the Minutemen had jumped into an early series lead by defeating Quinte Precast in two straight games and gaining the home game advantage. The double loss this week, however, gives the advantage back to Stirling (the last game of the series is played in Stirling on Tuesday night) and virtually makes the series a one game series. The team now have their backs against the wall and must win this game in Stirling to take the championship.

The Madoc team started the game in their normal aggressive fashion by retiring the Stirling team in their half of the first inning without allowing them to score. The Minutemen came to bat and scored two runs on a triple by Harold Bailey and a single by Brian Armstrong. However, the Madoc defense broke down in the Stirling half of the second inning and the Quinte Precast team scored four runs to take a 4-2 lead. From then until the game was completed, the Minutemen were forced to play catchup ball and they just couldn't get the timely hits or prevent the Stirling team from scoring two more runs. The final score was 6-5 for Stirling.

The Madoc team had been relying on their bats and the fact that Brian

Armstrong had been able to rattle the Stirling team, but it backfired on them on Thursday night. The Stirling team got the timely hits and were successful in spiking Brian's arsenal to take that part of the game away from them. The Stirling team was still forced to come up with the big defensive plays to keep Madoc off the scoreboard; at one time, they even came up with a double play to snuff out a Madoc threat. Brian Armstrong (much to Harold's disgust) continued to be the most aggressive baserunner on the Minutemen by stealing two more bases. He forced several errors but it just was not enough to stop this Stirling team who have proven that they deserve to be in the finals.

Superstition has long been a part of sports and this Madoc team is no exception. Prior to Tuesday night, when the Minutemen suffered their first defeat in six games in the playoffs, Harold Bailey would not let Karen Bailey wash his ball socks. Sometime before Tuesday's game, Karen decided that she could not put up with that smell in the house any longer, so

PRACTICE

Coach Robert Cooke puts some of the guys trying out for the senior football team, through some strenuous exercises as some of the other boys look on. The coaches of the football teams at Centre Hastings Secondary School, have been pleasantly surprised with the quantity and quality of the students who are trying out for the teams this year. There were about forty boys trying out for the senior team, alone and coach Barry Pyear feels that this is a good omen for this year's team.

Hockey auction coming

The Junior D hockey committee and the arena committee have joined forces to try and defray the cost of operating a Junior D club in Madoc by holding an auction sale on Sept. 30th. The proceeds from this sale will be divided equally between the two committees because both are badly in need of funds and support and this method of raising funds was deemed to be the best way to raise the money.

The Junior D. club deserves the support of the community because they are the club that all the minor hockey players of the village and surrounding areas look up to and hope to play for in the future. Minor hockey in Madoc helps many of our

LUCKY WINNER

Winner of the Admiral T.V. set, that was the object of the I.G.A. draw this week, was Mr. Robert Cole, of 285 Beech Ave., Toronto. Mrs. Osborne and Louella Phillips drew the lucky ticket and Mr. Cole will now be responsible for coming to Madoc to pick up the set.

Madoc Community Calendar Needs Help From You

The Madoc Calendar has been going great guns for several months now and is generally recognised as both a good community service and a valuable method of advertising.

However, it does depend on organisations' secretaries, and publicity persons letting us now what is happening in plenty of time to get it into the paper. Dances, meetings, special events or regular occurrences as long as they have to do with Madoc we're happy to put them in give us a call.

Remember, the calendar runs a full month in to the future so let us know when something's happening well ahead.

 younger boys receive the necessary training and skating skills to continue in hockey as they grow older. But, these skills are only necessary if there is another team and league for them to go on to, and this is where the danger lays in Madoc. We have very few such clubs or leagues for these boys to work towards and when they have invested their time and their parents' time and money to learn the basics, they should be given the opportunity to continue playing good, organized hockey.

Many people in the area have already donated to this joint venture but both committees still need many more items to make the project a success. They are more than willing to go and pick up any old or unused items that you may have around the house or farm that you would be willing to donate to their cause. The auction sale will be held at the arena and this is where the items collected for the sale are being stored. If you have some items to be delivered, you can call any of the members of the two committees to come and pick it up or you can call Graig Rosnuk, the arena manager, and make arrangements with him to deliver it yourself.

The members of the arena committee are: Joe Ash, Bob Bancroft, Jim Daniels, Ross Moorcroft, Dave Franks, Raeburn Robinson, Doug Wood, Glen Franks, Ted Pollick and Graig Rosnuk. The Junior D committee is made up of Glen Nickle, Brian Armstrong, Harold Bailey, Bill Love, Sonny Osborne, Duncan McNeBeath, Bill Lahey Sr., and Bob Henderson.

The sale will be a combination auction sale, bake sale and rummage sale and the committees are saying, "If it is saleable, we'll sell it."

Local man chosen to head up special manpower committee

A local man has been chosen to head up Marmora's Special Manpower Committee. Wilf Terrion, a local realtor who manages the Marmora Bowes and Cokes was chosen by the committee on Wednesday Night at a special. Mr. Terrion worked at the mine for several years and served as a union officer and on the negotiating committee for much of the time. Last year he was on loan from the mine to the International United Steelworkers working organising and servicing the locals across Canada.

Mr. K.A. Gelok, the manpower representative on the committee said that Mr. Terrion was chosen for the experience and because of the fact that he was a local man. "There were several qualified candidates, some perhaps with more qualifications than Mr. Terrion but the fact that he was a local candidate seemed to overrule other factors for the committee. "The committee is made up of a representative of the salaried employees, the union, manpower and area municipalities - Madoc, Madoc Township, Marmora, Marmora and Lake Townships, Delor, Havelock and Belmont-Methuen Townships.

Mr. Gelok said that they were looking for someone who could easily go in and talk to a company president, who had had experience dealing with executives and union people and who, preferably, knew the area.) At the meeting on Wednesday evening Mr. Gelok revealed that they had received four applications for the job - three local and one from a man in Peterborough. His department had gone over the applications he said and recommended that the committee choose either Mr. Terrion or a Mr. C.A. Watts from Peterborough who had done this sort of work for the department before. I was predetermined that manpower would do such a screening.

Mr. Gelok and Mr. Terrion both emphasise that they felt the committee should be recognised by the public as a service to the miners and not a "watch dog" committee to keep them off unemployment. Ex-employees of the mine are free to use the service or not. Questionnaires have been sent out to miners asking them for information. "Even we are surprised by the response. "Mr. Gelok said. "So far we've received 100 questionnaires. That's a very good response."

Mr. Terrion was optimistic about what could be done and remarked that through the efforts of the committee men had already been interviewed through Manpower in Oshawa and were awaiting their medicals. "I think this can do a lot of good for the whole area. It can benefit a lot of municipalities."

Mr. Gelok said that the role of the chairman will largely involve talking to executives and arranging jobs. "At first this may involve one or two days a week. We

she washed the socks. Harold made it known before the game on Thursday night that he didn't want his socks washed again until the series was over. Maybe that was why he hit a triple the first time that he came to the plate. He was trying to get away from the smell that was wafting up from his feet.

The Minutemen now travel to Stirling on Tuesday night to complete the series and they will definitely require fan support if they hope to take the championship. Stirling had a large delegation of fans at the Madoc ballpark on Thursday night which definitely helped their team. Madoc is capable of knocking the Stirling team off in their own park, but they will need every bit of help that they can get, whether it is dirty socks or wildly cheering fans. It will be the best of the series and should be a very spirited game as a certain amount of animosity has built up between these two teams in this series. Pride has never been a Madoc team's problem and this may be the deciding factor in this series. Both teams are very evenly matched so the team with the most pride will probably win the series.

CHSS teams get ready for the opposition

The new school year has started and the teachers and students of Centre Hastings School have wasted no time in preparing themselves for participation in the school's many athletic endeavors for the year. The coaches are expressing optimism about this year's teams because, from the beginning, they are getting better turnouts for the various team tryouts and this should mean better and stronger teams for the year.

The Centurion football teams and the junior girls basketball team were the first teams to indicate that more students than ever before are interested in becoming Centurions; it also may indicate that the students are arriving with the team spirit that is so essential to the members of the teams competing for the school. By attending several of the practices that were being held this week, it was easy to see that the competitive spirit, along with the desire to become a member of a close-knit team that will do battle with similar teams from other schools to see which team will emerge at the end of the season as the best in the area was being cultivated by the coaches. The students were showing much of the enthusiasm necessary for a winning team and the different teaching techniques of the coaches should combine to focus that desire, along with playing knowledge and skill, to make the team a cohesive unit that could go all the way.

The senior football team is coached by Barry Pycar, Bob Mound and Robert Cooke. The junior team is coached by Elmer Buchanan, Stan Riviere and Bob Pesowsky. Barry Pycar, who was impressed with the quality of the forty boys who had turned out to make the senior team, could barely conceal the enthusiasm that he is already feeling and he stated that this was the best squad that he could remember trying out for the team.

The junior team was already throwing very thinly disguised remarks at the senior team, so they obviously have the spirit and now only need the skills before they will be ready to take on the senior team.

Yvonne Mabo, the coach of the junior girls' basketball team, felt that her team could be an unknown quantity in their league this year. They lost many of their experienced players from 1st year to the senior squad, but she felt that if the new girls are fast learners and have the desire, there was no reason why they could not do well this year. She had eighteen girls trying out for the team - a very pleasant surprise. Twelve girls will eventually make the team and she felt that their only weakness was the fact that they do not have a midget team to give the new students some experience before they try out for the junior team. Gymnasium space and someone to coach this team are the major reasons for not having a midget team.

Carman Donato also seemed pleased with the boys who were trying out for the senior boys volleyball team. He had a good combination of boys who played for him last year and go national exposure, and also he had some very talented boys coming up from the junior team. "If some of these junior boys play up to their full potential, we'll have a good, well balanced team and should do well this year." Their first test will come on Saturday, Sept. 23rd, at Centre Hastings Secondary School, when they will be hosting a Quebec-Ontario tournament.

The Centurions are obviously working hard to produce winning teams for their school but their work could be made a lot easier for them if they have plenty of Centurion supporters to back them up. So, if you can't be a Centurion this year, be a Centurion supporter and do your part to support the school teams.

Volleyball team will host tourney

On Saturday Sept. 23, 1978, the Centre Hastings Senior Boys' Volleyball team will be holding an Ont.-Que. invitational tournament. There will be 12 teams attending, including one team from Quebec. The teams are coming from London, Kitchener, Toronto, Pickering, Bowmanville, Fenelon Falls, Peterborough, Brighton, Soulangue Que.; there will be two teams from Centre Hastings. There will be the present team from C.H.S.S., along with an Oldtimers team made up by players from past years.

The 78-79 C.H.S.S. squad should prove to be one of the teams to beat, because of experience gained having played in the Canadian Juvenile Volleyball Championships in Fredricton-N.B., where they placed 11th in the nation.

The best teams in Ontario will be playing in this tournament and should give the CHSS team coached by Carman Donato, a chance to see how their high powered offense will match up against the other teams in Ontario.

The tournament is being held at Centre Hastings Secondary School in Madoc, and is going to start at 9:00, with playoffs at 5:00. The cafeteria will be open with food and refreshments.

Volleyball is an exciting spectator sport for everyone; this tournament will provide the people of this area a chance to see a fast growing sport at its best.

...of a flowering cactus and other matters

by PATRICK REDICAN

Small town newspapers are a constant source of humor to people. Here we are, concerned with who visits who, the price of the new ice machine and the fact that there might be ten new jobs in the area. Meanwhile, out there in the wide world, all the big important things are happening and the big newspapers write column after column on wars, depression and pestilence.

And sometimes, being a small town newspaper editor does seem a bit silly. Last week, when someone called to tell me that their cactus was about to bloom for the first time in twenty years, I came up with a fairly mixed reaction. I mean, I personally was interested in seeing a flowering cactus, but is this really news? Does Peter Newman get calls like this?

As it turns out, it was. Because, as I never tire of telling any of my colleagues around here (but sometimes for myself) what's news is what's interesting to the writer. If you're interested, you'll write an interesting article, and if you write an interesting article, people will enjoy it and learn something. I'm sure Peter Newman would agree. I expect he says the same things to all the writers down there at McLeans.

And this trip was interesting in a number of ways. First we have the flowering cactus. The cactus flowered on Tuesday morning and I made it out there Wednesday around noon and frankly, the flower was in its decline. But it was still an amazing sight the way it seemed to have randomly decided to come off the cactus spine and just flower. Not very ordered and not, obviously, predictable and not about to stay around for very long. Just something worth doing and it did it (for more graphic explanation, see accompanying picture).

Also very interesting was the man who owned the flowering cactus. Sid Lovegrove is a man who retired because there was so much he wanted to do. At 63, after five years in retirement he can only find still that there is not enough time in his day. He has a large garden and is known as far as Toronto for the tomato and pepper plants

Once every twenty years or so, under perfect conditions, a flowering cactus will flower, according to Mr. Sid Lovegrove of Deloro. His opened up on Tuesday, September 5. By Wednesday when this picture was taken, it was already visibly wilted. Mr. Lovegrove is famous in the area and abroad for his greenhouse and garden products.

he grows himself from seed and sells to enthusiastic customers. He has a good sized shop where he keeps himself busy with welding and small engine work - some for himself, some for others (and what's more amazing about this is that, until he retired he had never done this sort of work; 43 years as a chartered appraiser for the CNR is hardly apprenticeship for being a welder); and he has a beautiful house which he has almost completely redone, bringing up woodwork from under seven layers of paint, restoring furniture, renovating the basement.

"People ask me how I can stand having him around the house all the time" Mrs. Lovegrove said. "I tell them I never see him. I put lunch on the table and I'm lucky if he comes within the hour".

Obviously, someone that interested in life is interesting. "People ask me why I don't travel. For years I went everywhere CN went and everywhere Air Canada flew. Since I've been here, I've travelled very little. There's too much to do here."

So it's true. Even without wars, pestilence and depressions, it's all here. And all very interesting.

New Co-op building underway for Madoc

The building of the new Co-op store and warehouses has begun this week and it is hoped that, weather permitting, the buildings will be completed in the month of November. On the construction site this week bulldozers were hard at work clearing the site and levelling the area where the store and one warehouse will be situated. The footings were poured and B & B Construction, the contractors for the job, hope to continue with the building this week.

This is one of the bigger contracts that B & B Construction have received, but, in David Brady's words, "We're ready for it and we think that if the weather holds, we can complete the job on time." The construction will cost approximately $150,000 and will add to the versatility and service that the Co-op can supply.

The people involved in the construction, Mr. Earle Helps, General Manager of the present Co-op store, David Brady and Larry Brownson of B&B Construction, the engineer, Mr. Fred Enger, and several members of the Madoc Co-op Association, met on the site early in the week to discuss the project and to sign the contract. These types of on site meetings will be held throughout the construction and it is hoped that any and all problems will be avoided in this manner.

Rev. and Mrs. H.H. Lackey of Peterborough were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Creaser on Sunday.

Nearly 200 people called on Mr. and Mrs. Frank O'Rourke on Sunday to wish them happiness on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. John O'Rourke of Hepworth spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. O'Rourke. The families of the O'Rourkes attended church service with them on Sunday morning here.

Mrs. Walter Henry Cobourg spent a few days over the weekend with Mrs. Will Lynn and Mrs. Goldwin Holmes.

A reception was held on Sept. 1 in Kiwanis Centre, Madoc for Mr. and Mrs. Gene Cassidy who were married recently.

Mrs. Walter Henry, Cobourg, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lynn of Tweed were supper guests of Mrs. Will Lynn.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Clarke visited Mr. and Mrs. Claude Keene and boys, Cooper on Thursday.

Mrs. Arthur Holmes and Mrs. Ken Cassidy attended Survey '78 an Art exhibition held in Corby Public Library Gallery on Thursday evening.

Mrs. Nettie Alexander, Frankford spent several days over the weekend with Mrs. Will Cassidy and attended the reception for Mr. and Mrs. Gene Cassidy on Friday night.

Mrs. Gertie Patterson, Ottawa, spent a few days over the weekend with Mrs. Neil Johnson.

These men, Fred Enger, Mike Haley, Larry Brownson, Earle Helps, David Brady, William Raynsford and Morley Chard, all met at the site of the new Co-op buildings in Madoc, to discuss any problems that may arise on the job and to sign the contract. Weather will probably be the major problem encountered at the site, as was the case on Monday. Mr. Helps said on Monday morning, "It's really soupy up there this morning." The contractors will need some co-operation from the weather if they plan to be finished on time.

The entire program has a funding of about $11,000 in federal and provincial funds, according to Mr. Gelok. This money goes to pay Mr. Terrion's salary, the salary of the secretary, travelling expenses and supplies. The office space needed is being donated free of charge by the Village of Marmora. The office will be located over the senior Citizen's clubroom at the corner of highways 7 and 14.

ISSUES IN THE LAW

by Andre Philpot, Barrister and Solicitor

If you think the black flies are big nowadays try and imagine them in 1851, or the miles of marshes, bogs, forest and roadless wilderness you would have to tramp through to get from the north end of Lake Township to Bancroft. The complaints we make about our backroads and travelling difficulties would have been scoffed at by the pioneers of East Central Ontario, but even their complaints would have appeared pretty sissified to the surveyors who preceded them.

In the first half of the nineteenth century, the lands north of Stirling and Campbellford were, except for the intrusions of lumbermen, for the most part exactly as God had made them. They stretch northward in a mass of rocks, cedar swamps and hill into what must have seemed infinity.

In January of 1851, Publius V. Elmore, a provincial land surveyor, was sent out from Belleville on what was a colossal task. Before the wilderness could be sold and settled it had to be ordered, divided and put into identifiable parcels. It had to be surveyed.

Elmore's mandate was "to determine the best line for a road from his starting point to the Madawaska River".

In addition to usual surveying his instructions were to make notes as to the fitness of the terrain for farming, to determine an appropriate road bed, to find bridge sites and to set the slopes of hills. In short he was charged with mapping out the future development in that part of the County.

The importance of that early survey work can hardly be overstated. Elmore and his colleagues had, by 1863, mapped out one half a million acres in Hastings County, creating farm parcels of 200 and 100 acres.

It was in accordance with the farm lots set out by the surveyors that the crown granted land to the first would-be farmers. Still today land is described in terms of the lots and concessions set out well over one hundred years ago.

It seems impossible, but many land-owners can still locate the old 'monuments' set so long ago to mark the end of one parcel and the beginning of another. For many farms, the visits of the nineteenth century surveyors are still the only times the land has been officially and lawfully measured.

Surveying today

While the techniques have changed, the job of survey is, as it was one hundred years ago, still the setting and monumenting of accurate boundaries delineating ownership. Modern surveyors may use laser beams in place of the old chains, they may use metres not rods but the finds of 100 years ago still govern.

With the increasing division of lands into smaller and smaller lots, the necessity of accurately describing parcels has been made clear. Old farm Lot 10, Concession 3 may now be the side of a housing project with its 200 acres split between 100 owners.

Thirty years ago it may have been all right to have your deed refer to "the 150 feet west of the creek where it hits the forest road," but too much confusion now arises. The Registry Offices will not, nor should they, accept vague or inaccurate descriptions. This is why many owners find that in order to convey their lands a survey is required.

In order to prevent the creation of new lots with poor descriptions, every newly created parcel of land must be shown on a glorified form of survey called a reference plan.

To all surveyors the new regulations have meant a definite boom in business. Despite all the grumbling about cost and time wasted, they will in the long run be a benefit to the landowner as well.

Footnotes

One chain is 66 feet.

One rod is 16.5 feet.

A village lot normally is a road, one chain in frontage by 2 1/2 chains deep [66 x 165], which makes a quarter acre.

Apart from the "gore" (or reduced lots at the end of a Township) Township lots were intended to comprise either 100 acres or 200 acres.

Saddle Your Dreams

by Naomi Wakan

Please be sure to give brief details of the day on which the dream occurs as they may give a clue to the event that triggered the dream. Well, it's back to school and here are a couple of teaching dreams.

Dear Mrs. Wakan,

I will be taking a number of subjects this year after some years of not being a student and I have the usual fears that I won't understand. I dreamed that a young man comes in and goes into another room that I think is a classroom. He says he has to express some feeling. I turn to see a wise old man at the table; he is going to teach mathematics.

Mrs. N.

Suggested interpretation: often we are prevented from learning by emotions getting in the way. "The teacher won't like me", "I'm going to make a fool of myself" etc. Once you can trace the source of these negative messages you feed yourself then you can learn clearly. Interest which is pure energy is so often blocked by emotional messages that we have been fed about ourselves from our childhood and in previous learning situations.

Dear Mrs. Wakan,

I guess term time triggered this dream but its meaning still eludes me. Perhaps you could help. I dreamed that I am at University. There is a class on art. The teacher is putting up a big show but doesn't seem to be saying anything relevant. I ask a question important to me and she has to go to a book and look it up. I get angry and say "I know it all myself" and "You're not in touch" and walk off. I am a bit scared for who will provide my meals, then I think that I will go to a different friend every week to eat.

Pete.

Suggested interpretation: Well of course we rely on teacher far too much when a lot of the knowledge and all the talents lies latent inside us. The teachers real role is education from the latin 'educare' to lead out, meaning that she should draw the talents out from us and encourage us to have confidence in our own exploration for knowledge. No matter how much anyone else knows it cannot help us one iota unless we feel we really know it for ourselves. You know that you do need someone to fulfill this function for you yet trust that people will come along who will teach you (nourish). When we view everyone as our teacher it is most helpful for even the most outwardly destructive and negative person can teach us a lesson. People who teach everyday unless they too are learning, are bound to get out of touch and played out often before the term is much under way. If they are not excited in the lesson and are just dishing up last years stuff then the students are the first to become disenchanted. It looks as though creativity is the area you need most encouragement in now, yet your dream is telling you to have confidence in your talents and the right teacher will turn up.

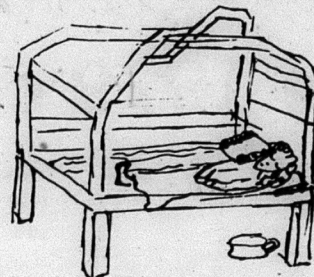

At the schoolhouse

by Naomi Wakan

We are learning a lot about wild foods. We have a collection of wise old people, who tell us what to do and what not to do when it comes to collecting and eating 'weeds'. Eli claims the best way to identify them is to eat them, whereas I somewhat timidly list any number of wild plants deadly to cattle and so by inference to humans. Eli counters by asking me not to eat any berries from nearby bushes if I happen to encounter him lying on the ground groaning. Nothing was going to change our positions and that was that.

Imagine my chagrin, when, after serving milk-weed pods, steamed and floating in butter, I became deadly sick. I vomited spontaneously and heartily crawled into the 4-poster positioning myself in as attractive a position is possible for when Eli should arrive and find me dead.

I sunk into a coma and imagined my mother as teacher at the school-house showing me how walls could grow and shrink and how water could be made to flow up-stream. I am laughing with what I later recount as a Zen laugh but in reality (hallucination) it was closer to a giggle. Suddenly it occurred to me that if I didn't jump out of bed that minute and get the blood circulating I could very easily die. So

MILK-WEED DREAMS

I jumped.

Eli was very good about the whole matter and struck a nice balance between ignoring it and saying I told you so. Last, our Herbal Bible informed me that the pods should not be eaten in large quantities, nor when over two inches. Eli was kind enough to say that at least I knew some botanical facts now and I accepted his praise.

and then there's the idiot who does all the work and doesn't get paid

From the Hastings Agri-Gram:

A story by Bennet Cerf claims that a farmer was reported to be so close with his wages that the government sent out a man from the Wage Board to investigate.

"We hear," said the bureau man, "that you are breaking the law by paying below minimum wages."

"You do, eh?" said the farmer. "Well let me think. There's Mike who milks the cows and watches TV most of the day—gets $40.00 a week. And there's Annie—supposed to do the cooking but reads movie magazines most of the time—she get $35.00. Then, there's my son Joe who knocks holes in the barn with baseballs and drives the car around all night—he gets $30.00."

"Can't see anything wrong there," said the government man, "Is that all your help?"

"Well," sighed the farmer, "there's just the half-wit left. Sometimes I think he is it pretty rough. He works 18 hours a day—sometimes more—and gets his room and board and a couple dollars a week for tobacco."

"Ah," the inspector, perked up, "I'd like to talk to him."

"You're talking to HIM right now," said the farmer.

Warkworth Fair

Its that time of year again to tell you all about the upcoming events at the 128th Percy Agricultural Society Fair in Warkworth. The President, Mr. Lewis Dunk (known by all as Lew) is very enthusiastic of the Fair program for this year and appreciative of all the support given to him and his committees by the townspeople and community at large.

One of the big improvements this year is the new look of all the buildings and grounds due to the hard work of three girls—Carol Dunk, Sandra Cornelius and Julie Ferguson, who during the course of six weeks, took two weeks each in being foreman and painted all the buildings. The hard part was painting the aluminium roof during the hot spell. Other major jobs was the cleaning up a long time collection of garbage, nailing on siding, fixing barn roofs and even putting up a fence section. They persevered and, as Carol Dunk said, "we showed em." The finances for this project was through a Young Canada Works Grant program.

Mr. Dunk said that the Hon. George Hees will officially open the 128th annual Fair following a giant parade led by the Brighton Legion Pipe Band and the new car to be drawn for during the afternoon, the Northumberland Dairy Princess, Miss Sharon McComb and all that comes behind to make up a parade of commercial floats, clowns, old cars, school children, horses etc. Alan Buchanan is chairman of the parade and also procured the services of Tommy Mason of Buckhorn to act as emcee once more at the platform show. Tommy has been coming to Warkworth Fair for several years but will never come out and say how many.

An afternoon of entertainment at the platform is being planned by Douglas Harpur. Mr. Harpur says we will be hearing the "Miles-A-Part."

Quartette from the Trentones: A rock Group "The Pyramids" from Hastings; George Potter who is famous in these parts will demonstrate his old Time Fiddlin' skill. The Pipe Band will also be playing at intervals and then several competitions of skill and contests are planned. There is also a prize for the largest family, the oldest person and the one from the furthest distance. Mr. Harpur says the prize money is much bigger this year, so get practised up ladies with that hammer.

Another event of note will be Achievement Day for the Warkworth 4H and Colbright Clubs. Alvin Anderson will be looking after the horse races which will be going on all afternoon. There will be a midway for young and old. One long time tradition each year to be savoured is the Ellis taffy from Trenton. The big red building will once again overflow with flowers, fresh vegetables, cheese and all that good home baking on the main floor while upstairs will be a beautiful display of needlework and group exhibits, and don't forget the baby show is up there too.

Don Massey is the car draw chairman and this year a better car with a few more frills is up for grabs to the lucky person who gets to have his name still in it when all others have been drawn.

After reading all this that is being offered for a mere pittance you can't afford not to be at the Warkworth Fair where you also meet all your old friends of yesteryear and the new ones too.

Oh yes, don't forget to come back on Sunday to witness the big "Tractor Pull", convened by Alex Glover. Hi, Ho, Come To The Fair.

Another group of farmers may be getting it in the ear in the Niagara peninsula.

The Hamilton-Wentworth regional council is planning a garbage dump which will use more than 500 acres of land. It is supposed to be a big enough garbage dump to take care of the region's needs for 20 years.

But more than 70 farmers are uptight. Who can blame them? They fear the dump will cause pollution problems in years to come. They think the Welland River will be contaminated.

The experts suggest that it will take at least 15 years for any leaching problems to occur.

"We are alarmed that regional councils will allow this threat of pollution to hang over our heads and our children's and grandchildren's," said a spokesman for the landowners.

They told the regional council that it was immoral even to suggest a dump be allowed across the headwaters of the river, called Chippawa Creek by some residents.

By the time most of you read this, the issue will have been brought before the Ontario Municipal Board.

Rural residents in many other areas of the province have made their protesting voices heard in recent years. Many will remember the big city of Tranna getting its come-uppance in a plan to send tons of garbage by rail to the Tavistock area. There was a move not long ago to dump waste in the Marmora Area, atomic waste, I believe. That was settled in favor of farmers. It seems to me farmers are the only people left who have any feel for the future. They seem to be making the protests for their children and their grandchildren rather than for themselves.

Maybe it's because of their country background. Maybe it is because their sense of family - of togetherness - is keener than others. Maybe that's why they are the only people willing to fight for future generations.

Certainly, most urbanites, if their actions in the country are an indication, couldn't care a damn about the future. Or about children or grandchildren.

We live in the country. A rural road past our place takes the urbanites to the township golf course. The patrons scoot along that gravel road as though it were a raceway. The ditches are strewn with pop cans, beer bottles and fast-food-paper and boxes.

It may not be the golfers who cause all the litter but they are easy to blame.

No matter. The ditches are dirty.

So are thousands of miles of ditches along country roads in this province and the filth is caused by careless, thoughtless people who are too lazy to clean out a car. They throw trash out of car windows.

The callousness of it all perplexes me. It is the same callousness that permeates the thinking of regional councils. Why would they even think of allowing a river to be polluted? The callousness that city people in Toronto displayed. They thought shipping garbage out of the city by rail to be dumped in the country would be taken without a whimper.

The callousness displayed by those people who think property owners along the Bruce Trail should simply allow hikers to use the trail because it is a trail. No matter that fence lines were ignored, campfires were allowed to burn, garbage was strewn indiscriminately. Only a few hikers were responsible but that's all it takes to screw the deal for everyone.

And it will only take a few more high-handed suggestions from city people about garbage dumps before the entire rural population of Ontario will descend on the legislature and all other urban governments.

It would be great if the farmers did revolt.

They could drag manure carriers into every council chamber in Ontario. That would make the city dwellers sit up and take notice.

Value of fermentation aids

By DENNIS McKNIGHT
Lecturer, K.C.A.T.

A variety of aids to fermentation of silage are commercially available. These products usually contain a variety of ingredients designed to control fermentation after ensiling. Ingredients may include antibiotics, enzymes, lactic acid producing bacteria, minerals and mineral combinations, acids, formaldehydes and carbohydrates.

Antibiotic possibilities include zinc bacitracin, combinations, acids, formaldehydes and carbohydrates.

Antibiotic possibilities include zinc bacitracin, terramycin, neomycin, penicillin, aureomycin, chlorotetracycline, oleandomycin, oxatetracycline, oleandomycin, oxatetracycline, streptomycin and tylosin. Research indicates those products have little or no effect in silage fermentation. The quantity added is small and most antibiotics are quickly inactivated.

Enzymes and lactic acid producing bacteria are a fairly recent addition to the list of silage fermentation aids. In theory they could have a dramatic effect on fermentation aids. In theory they could have a dramatic effect on fermentation if added in sufficient quantities. But cost limits quantity and the naturally occurring bacteria "outcompete" the added materials. Research in the testing of these products is underway and much more is required before proper conclusions can be made. Most reports at this time indicate little increase in rate and efficiency of silage fermentation or nutrient preservation. Producers should be cautious of these products until more data is available.

Mineral combinations used in silage preservation may include sodium chloride (salt), sulphur dioxide, sodium metabisulfite, sodium nitrate, calcium formate, sodium propionate and ammonium isobutyrate.

Sodium metabisulfite is usually oxidized and therefore inactivated and the others show little improvement in animal performance. Again testing is limited and more is required to weed out ineffective products.

Acids such as acetic, propionic and formic appear quite effective in reducing mold growth and temperature during ensiling. Research indicates that when silage is stored using recommended procedures there is not enough improvement in preservation or feeding value from using acid preservatives to warrant the cost. Formic acid can be used successfully on low dry matter hay-crop silages but cost and weather conditions have limited its usage in Ontario. Formaldehyde at low levels of treatment shows considerable promise as a silage preservative for direct cut hay-crops when incorporated with formic acid. This is cheaper than formic acid alone and feeding value appears to be further improved. Carbohydrate addition to silage increases the availability of energy required by lactic acid producing microorganisms. This speeds up fermentation and decreases matter losses. Grains and molasses are commonly used products and economy usually dictates whether to include or not. In general fermentation aids do not improve silage quality or quantity when recommended ensiling procedures are followed. Many products have not been adequately tested for efficacy as additives. The producer is advised to seek professional unbiased advice prior to the purchase of any product as the costs are

Automobile tours of the Yukon

Back during the gold rush of 1898, Yukon was the destination of fortune-seekers. Now its visitors go for other rewards but the Yukon is still a special place.

The motorist will find Yukon's road system ground twice. The 3200 km (2,000 miles) of all-weather highways are well kept, though unpaved, and the comfortable pace up to 80 km (50 mph) speed limit allows ample opportunity for enjoying the views.

Circular routes present a choice of tours varying from a 10 day crossing into Alaska and back again, to a pleasant day's jaunt with leisurely stops on the way.

The longest circle tour, about 2400 km (1,500 miles), starts close to the Yukon-British Columbia border, at Watson Lake. Here at Mile 635 (1020 km) on the Alaska Highway, the Robert Campbell Highway turns right for a swing through wilderness country with superb fishing. Some 544 km (340 miles) later it joins the Klondike Highway at Carmacks to follow the gold rush route to Dawson City.

An alternative route from Watson Lake to Carmacks is faster but 32 km (20 miles) longer. It continues along the Alaska Highway to Whitehorse then turns off at its junction with the Klondike Highway a few kilometers outside the capital city.

Driving north from Dawson City, the well-named Top of the World Highway gives a gentle sensation of flying along a road that swoops over the mountain-tops with birds'-eye views all the way to the Alaska border. Inside the United States, the circle bends southwest to Tetlin Junction, then southeast back into Canada at Beaver Creek.

Travelling south, the road squeezes itself between Yukon's largest and highest lake, Kluane (pronounced clue-ah-nee), and a national park of the same name which encompasses icefields, glaciers and the highest mountains on the continent.

The treeless cliffs of shale and rock rearing up from this road are home to dall sheep, which can be seen, by the sharp-sighted, standing on seemingly unreachable ledges on this lonely landscape.

Leaving the lakeshore, the road crosses the 900 metre (3,000 foot) summit which marks the highest point between Yukon and Alaska's big cities - Whitehorse and Fairbanks. Past Kluane park headquarters, the highway turns at Haines Junction, back among the trees, towards Whitehorse and on to Watson Lake.

Another circle from Watson Lake also starts up the Robert Campbell Highway, named for the man who established a Hudson's Bay fur trading post there in 1840. The road climbs steadily to a wooded plateau, following Frances River, and approaches one of the Yukon's finest lakes, Frances Lake, close to the continental divide where the watersheds of two immense rivers, the Yukon and the Mackenzie, separate.

With the rugged Campbell range on the west, and the Logan mountains to the east, the road meets another important river, the Pelly, and arrives at the junctions of the Canol Highway crossing the Campbell Highway running north and south. Here, a 9.6 km (6 mile) side-trip to Ross River, a small settlement on the banks of the Pelly, is worthwhile for the views alone.

Back on track, the highway dips down into the deep gorge of the Lapie River, a good place to pan for gold. It continues parallel to the Pelly, past Faro, a company mining town and second largest settlement in Yukon, visible across the river.

Another 56 km (35 miles) brings the first view of Little Salmon Lake, a lure to fishermen. Waiting along the road is a dramatic first view of the mighty Yukon River, the route used by the 'stampede' of 1898 who came rafting down to Dawson City in their search for gold.

Just over 32 km (20 miles) further on, the road joins the Klondike Highway coming from Whitehorse, and here the choice has to be made whether to go on to Dawson, or turn left for the quick ride back to Whitehorse, through Carmacks.

Carmacks is named for George Carmack one of the prospectors whose gold discovery in 1896 started the rush for the Klondike. The village on the Yukon River was an important stop for river traffic before highways were built. South down the Klondike Highway, towards Whitehorse, the views of Fox Lake would make a Scotsman's heart beat faster with memories of his native lochs and mountains.

Joining the Alaska Highway again, at Whitehorse, the road makes a rough parallel to the B.C. Border, and completes the 1200 km (750 mile) circle to Watson Lake, via Johnson's Crossing and Teslin.

Yet another circle up the Campbell Highway turns left at Ross River junction on the Canol Road, cutting across the Pelly mountains, down to Johnson's Crossing at the head of Teslin Lake, and back to Watson Lake. This 912 km (570 mile) trip is through country where gas stations are scarce and there is need to plan the points of fill-up.

An interesting circle tour starting from Whitehorse, affords a comfortable eight-day drive for a 1440 km (900 mile) swing to Dawson along the Klondike Highway then across the ferry to Top of the World Highway, into the U.S., at Boundary, and back through Beaver Creek and Kluane. The road to Dawson follows gold rush history. Leaving Whitehorse, it skirts Lake Laberge, where treacherous winds defeated many an adventurer on his way down the Yukon River to the Klondike goldfields. Another 160 km (100 mile) north, the road passes the dreaded Five Finger Rapids where the swirling Yukon rounds a sharp corner, flowing between rocks and narrow channels. Here too, many a goldrush hopeful was drowned. A viewpoint alongside the highway looks down on the rapids and the twists and turns of the powerful river.

The Yukon wends away to the left, while the road bears right to cross three of its major tributaries, before rejoining it at Dawson City.

Pelly Crossing, some 80 km (50 miles) further on, was the site of a trading post on the Pelly River in the days when travel was along the waterways. Here, the highway crosses a bridge and starts a steep climb up the edge of a mountain to a viewpoint overlooking the village. Over the top, the road drops to a valley and curves its way to the next big river at Stewart Crossing.

Another trading post, Stewart is where the road divides, turning right into the mountains toward Mayo and Elsa and left up a steep incline, over another summit towards Dawson. Once over the top, the road snakes down and settles into the flatness of Tintina Trench for most of the remainder of the journey. Meeting the Klondike River, the highway seems to sweep smoothly beside it, nearing the gold rush centre of Dawson City. Piles of tading bumps up beside the road, hinting at the closeness of history with signs to Hunker Creek, Bear Creek and Bonanza Creek, all famous for their big goldfields.

When you enter Dawson you get some hint of the thrill a weary prospector must have felt rounding a bend to see two forceful rivers meet and find the town tucked into a valley.
Dawson is a place to explore before setting off across the ferry to the Top of the World Highway.
From Whitehorse, a popular Sunday drive rounds the small circle south to Carcross, then past Tagish Lake, turning left at Jake's Corner on to the Alaska
Highway and back to Whitehorse.
Carcross is a fascinating community, steeped in history, situated at the headwaters of the Yukon River. Eager prospectors who had climbed the Chilkoot Pass, embarked on rafts or steamers at

Bennet Lake and floated past Carcross through Tagish Lake and down to Whitehorse. The railway station, hotel and store still have a turn-of-the-century appearance and an old engine and beached paddle steamer add to the old-world atmosphere.
On to Tagish, the road curls between mountains and forests then crosses the wide river by bridge, which is a fisherman's gathering place. In a few more kilometers the quiet road reaches the busy

Alaska Highway at Jakes Corners and heads back to the capital city.
Buses tour the Alaska and Klondike Highways and make the big sweep in and out of Alaska but for the other circles bus trips are scarce or non-existent and the best means of getting there is private car.

A large ham—especially canned American ham—is one of the best menu-stretchers around if you plan for its use and don't just leave it in the refrigerator to be eaten as snacks.

If you have a freezer, it's easy for even a small family to use a big ham, but you should select the kind and brand that your family likes best. It's a good idea to choose any cured ham by brand since each has its own flavor.

You'll find weights vary from nine to 22 pounds, and if a ham is properly trimmed, a heavier one will yield more meat in proportion to bone. Have the butcher cut the hock off for you to cook with navy, green, lima or another of your family's favorite beans.

Inflation-Fighting

PUT HAM ON THE MENU

A BIG HAM SERVES several people many different meals.

Next, have him cut two or three slices, from one-half to three-fourths of an inch thick, from the center for broiling or frying and two more center slices, one-inch thick, for baking. That will leave two nice-sized roasts at either end, and you'll have main dishes for at least four meals.

Pound for pound, canned ham is the best value since skin, bone and excess fat have been removed before it is weighed in—usually at one and a half to 17 pounds. Some of the smaller ones don't require refrigeration as long as they're still in the can, but you should read the label. All hams, unless heavily smoked, must be refrigerated after they're opened, and if you plan to keep one longer than a week or two, you must freeze it.

CENTENNIAL MADOC REVIEW

Vol. 101 No. 30 Wed., Sept. 20, 1978

Public meets manpower ctte.

The Town Hall in Marmora was the site of a special Manpower Committee meeting on Wednesday, Sept. 3rd, at 7:00 p.m. Mr. Ken Gelok, who is a representative of the Manpower Consultative Service, was the special guest speaker whose job it was to inform any and all interested members of the committee and those people who were laid off from the Marmora Mine just what the Consultative Service and the Special Manpower Committee -- recently formed in Marmora -- would be attempting to do for the community.

Mr. Gelok stated that the Manpower Consultative Service assists companies where there is a major problem, such as closures or openings, and that they try to assist everyone involved from the president of the company to the janitor. The first step that would be taken in a community would be to form a committee that would represent both management and the worker, to suggest ideas to alleviate the problem.

Generally, the Consultative service would not come into an area unless it was specifically requested to do so by the company who, in this case, felt that they

Minutemen Champs

The Madoc Minutemen have ended their season on a winning note by defeating the Quinte Precast team, from Stirling, in a rather convincing fashion on Tuesday night. The result of the game was never in doubt after the first two innings, when Madoc took a 4-0 lead and held it to the end of the game. The only thing that had to be decided was whether Ted Sexsmith would get the shutout and just how many runs the Madoc squad would score.

The game was very interesting to watch but, I was personally most interested in the pre-game warmup of both teams. I had been present at the previous game and it appeared to me that Stirling had been able to turn that game around by really talking it up in the warmup and getting the enthusiasm back into their players. Brian Armstrong had been almost solely responsible for taking the edge off the team in the first two games, but they seemed to get it back in the second two games and in the warmup on Tuesday night, they seemed to be doing the same thing.

There was much talking and yelling along with an excellent variety of warmup exercises done by the Stirling team and, although the Minutemen went through generally the same workout, it seemed that they were not as up for the game. While I was sitting in the stands and watching the warmups, I also kept my eye on the bleachers, because I felt that if the team didn't get the support of some of their regular fans, the pressure would really be on the team members to come up with the best game of the season. At first I could only see Alvin Devolin and several of the wives of the ball players. I must admit that, at that time, I felt a little apprehensive about the team's ability to win the game, and for this, I extend my humble apologies to the Minutemen. What I had mistaken for lack of enthusiasm on the part of the team members, was actually determination and pride working on the team. They had obviously decided that psychology had run its course in this series and they were now going to have to go out and outplay them if they wanted to take the championship.

By the time the game actually got under way, the bleachers had filled up and it surprised me when I looked through the crowd to realize that it was mostly Madoc fans that had been arriving. The Minutemen showed their determination in the first inning by getting a run across the plate and then they surprised most people by inserting Brian Armstrong as the pitcher. However, it was obvious after four pitches that Brian's arm had not healed enough to make him effective, because he walked the first batter. Ted Sexsmith was then inserted as pitcher and immediately showed that he was ready for the game. The Stirling batters were retired in short

A History of the Madoc Fair

The Madoc Agricultural Society was organized in 1905 with A.F. Wood as president and Dennis Gillan as secretary. The fair was held on rented property situated on the old county road between Madoc and Marmora. A race track was built around the grounds. This property was used until 1921.

In 1920, a retired farmer-lumberman, Sam Rollins, became interested in the society and plans were laid to purchase property known as the St. Charles' farm on the county road between Madoc and Hazzard's Corners and about one mile from the village.

Mr. Rollins was appointed treasurer of the society and donated many hours of labour and also material used in the buildings. A track was constructed and buildings were erected in 1921 and the fair was held on these grounds in 1922.

On these grounds are two ticket offices, a large exhibit room, horse barn, swine barn, four livestock sheds, a 4-H Club exhibit building, cheese show room, lunch room managed by the Women's Institute and the secretary's office which is situated on a hill in the centre of the grounds.

On April 1st, 1965, the society was granted Class B status and in the same year a new swine barn was erected which is also used as an assembly yard for the Ontario Hog Producer's Association.

Each year, as September rolls along, many people begin to think ahead to the Madoc Fair. This fair has always been well attended and the above picture, which was taken in 1952, shows just how much the fair has played in our history. Before the advent of automobiles that would take you a long distance in a very short time, the fair was one of the biggest yearly events. It had something for everyone.

Minutemen Take Championship

order and Madoc came back to the plate.

The fans had made their presence felt in the first inning and in the second inning, they gave the Minutemen lots of support with the result that the Minutemen scored three more runs and ended up with the cushion that they so badly needed. From this point on, the combination of fan support and pride on the team, proved to be too much for the Stirling team to handle. The Madoc team hand fielded exactly the right players to give them the balance throughout the season. Those players who did not contribute to the offense of the team, more than made up for it by supplying tight defensive play and keeping the Stirling team off the scoreboard.

There were three defensive plays made by the Minutemen that really stood out and which could have made a big difference in the game if they had not been completed to perfection. At one point, Stirling had baserunners on first and third with one man out. The Stirling batter hit a fly ball to left field that was caught by Bob Willemson. The runner at third had tagged up and decided to test Bob's throwing arm. Bob proved equal to the task by throwing perfectly to home plate and getting the runner by at least two steps to prevent the run from scoring and retiring the side.

Shortly thereafter, Stirling had again placed a runner on first base and after Ted had made a pitch the runner took a big lead off first base and decided to force Harold to make the throw to first or he would steal second when Harold threw the ball back to the pitcher. It appeared that Harold would not make the throw to first and that he was just going to lob the ball back to the pitcher. The runner took off to second, but, instead of the ball going to the pitcher, it went to the second base, Keith Parks, who had the runner tagged out by a country mile. The Stirling player decided that there was nothing he could do but try and knock the ball out of Keith's glove, so he continued on and smashed into Keith, who held the ball for the out. This play almost resulted in a fight when Bob Willemson took exception to the play of the Stirling player, but cooler heads prevailed and a scuffle was avoided.

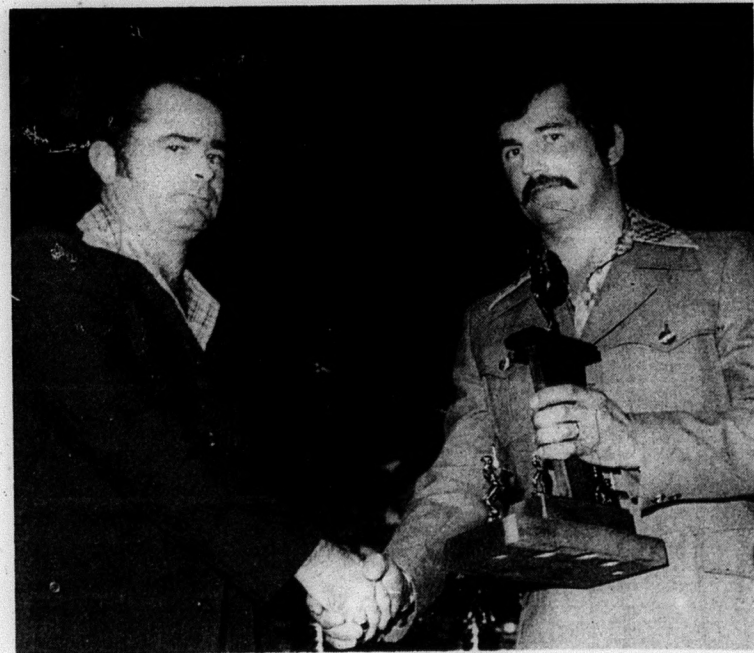

Stirling also threatened to get on the scoreboard late in the game, when one of their batters hit a long fly ball that appeared to be going out of the park.

Charlie Wannamaker got a good jump on the ball and made the catch at the fence to get the Minutemen out of another jam. This combination of timely hitting and headsup defense was exactly what the Minutemen needed to prove that they were the class of the Stirling League. They were a well balanced, well coached team that never lost sight of their objectives, no matter what kind of pressure they were under. Congratulations to the Minutemen and to their fans, who were there when they needed them.

St. Thomas Celebrates Wreckers' Reprieve With Thanksgiving

Historic St. Thomas' Church in Rawdon Township rang with hymns of Thanksgiving for a bountiful harvest and the prayers of a large congregation on Sunday afternoon, September 17.

The surviving members of the now-closed little country church, which has been given a reprieve from the demolition planned earlier this year, joined with the congregation of St. Mark's Church, Bonarlaw, and St. Paul's Church, Marmora, for the holding of this year's Harvest Thanksgiving Service. The picturesque church was attractively decorated with flowers, fruit and vegetables for the occasion.

Archdeacon M.J. Caswell of Trenton delivered the sermon. He began by thanking God for the miraculous way in which St. Thomas' Church had been saved from being demolished. However, he pointed out that the life of bricks and mortar is always limited and that we must bear in mind that the real church, which is made up of living souls, is eternal. He also spoke of the living spirit that had emanated from the Christian community at St. Thomas', commenting that this living spirit would continue on regardless of how long the building itself remained.

The rector, Rev. Jack Howard, extended a warm welcome to the 130 people present and reviewed the events leading up to the present plan for the preservation of St. Thomas' Church.

Presiding at the organ for most of the service was Miss Edna Tanner, who had served the congregation of St. Thomas' as organist for many years before its closure five years ago. The combined choirs of St. Mark's and St. Paul's were accompanied by Mrs. Myrna Neal for the anthem Bringing in the Sheaves.

The lesson was read by Mr. Harold Memby of Marmora, another person whose family connections were rooted in the community.

Mrs. Clark Parks of Bath spoke briefly about some of her ancestors, the Stout family, who were also closely connected with the church, and displayed three dishes which she said had been presented to her mother, organist at that time, on Mrs. Park's birth.

Among the congregation were Neil MacLennan, Architect Consultant to the Diocese of Ontario, and Mrs. MacLennan of Kingston. Mr. MacLennan was the person responsible for urging that St. Thomas' be preserved as a historic landmark and that a committee be formed by representatives from the two other churches to look after its maintenance.

Warden James Pollock of Hastings County and his wife also attended.

Following the service a social hour was enjoyed at the Orange Lodge hall a short distance down the road from the church.

Hasty-Ps Celebrate 35th Anniversary of Battle

Members of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment who were battling their way northward in Italy 35 years ago will hold their annual reunion in Belleville on Thanksgiving weekend, October 7 and 8. As an infantry battalion in the 1st Canadian Division, the Hasty Ps stormed ashore in Sicily in July, 1943, eleven months before D-Day in Normandy.

In addition to the annual memorial service the reunion will feature an impressive ceremony in which Lt. Col. Duncan Campbell will officially succeed Lt. Col. John Inrig in command of the Militia battalion which has companies in Belleville and Peterborough. Lt. Col. the Lord Tweedsmuir, who commanded the Hastings Ps. in their most spectacular action in Sicily, has been invited to come from Scotland to be a special guest speaker and to inspect the Regiment and take the salute in a march-past. He led the wartime battalion in an all-night cross country march and cliff-climb to capture the town of Assoro in Sicily.

Also present will be Lord Tweedsmuir's successor, Lt. Col. A.A. Kennedy of Stayner who commanded the Regiment in perhaps its finest hours- in establishing its historic bridgehead across the Moro River near Ortona in December, 1943.

On August 3rd, 1922, a meeting of the Madocagricultural Society was called by the executive, which consisted of John Smith, President, William Stewart, 1st Vice-President, Mrs. T.H. Tumelty, 2nd Vice-President and William J. Hill, Secretary-Treasurer.

This meeting was to consider purchasing permanent property for the use as a fair grounds. Present at this meeting were Messrs. Henry Kells, Chairman, T.H. Thompson, M.P., Angus Nicholson, James English, Jas. Hill, William Stewart, George Hill and John Smith.

A committee of Messrs. H. Kells, A. Nicholson, Joe Burns, Jas. English, John Smith and W.J. Hill was appointed to seek support and to negotiate a loan of $6,000.

On Aug. 7th, the sixty-eight who had signed to support the project met for further deliberations. It was decided to appoint a board of Trustees to hold in trust all money and property until all liabilities were liquidated. This board consisted of T.H. Thompson, W.H. Kells, John Chambers, A. Nicholson, Samuel Rollins, J.A. Moore, Robert Woods, John Smith, Hector Wood and were to work in conjunction with the Fair Board executive, Samuel Rollins was appointed as Treasurer of these groups which had the power to purchase grounds, erect buildings and to construct a race track, but to not exceed $6,000.

Four local properties, namely MacKenzie's, Whytock's, Hill's and Robertson's were available to purchase and after the pros and cons of each was discussed, a decision was made, on Aug. 9th, to purchase the John R. Robertson property of 49 acres, for $3,000.

On Aug. 12th, a building committee of Messrs. Nicholson, Rollins, Woods and English were appointed and after discussion with the Fair executive, decided to construct a building 80' x 46'. The committee to oversee the race track were T.H. Thompson (Chairman) Jas. Moore, T. Burnside, F. Curry, C. Whytock, W. Whytock, T. Blue, C. West, S.vstru, J. Chambers, C.J. Smith and Joe Barns.

On Sept. 24th Mr. W.J. Hill, who had acted as Secretary-Treasurer, resigned and Mr. Rollins was appointed to fill this position.

On Sept. 25th, the new Treasurer reported that of the $6,325 borrowed, the land cost $2,989.28, the buildings

$1,862.22 and the track $1,318.74, leaving a balance of $154.76. It was decided to complete all the buildings and track and the balance of liabilities to be paid from the agricultural funds. The project was completed and the first Fair on the new property was held on Oct. 3rd and 4th, 1922.

During the succeeding years the gate receipts and prize money increased by a coincidence in 1948 - 49 - 50. The gate receipts averaged $2,644 with only $2.70 between the high and low.

In 1955 the gate receipts were $2,700 and prize money paid was $2,100.

In 1961, the Ladies' Division was organized, with Mrs. Newell Broad as president, and Mrs. R.A. Woods as secretary. By 1964, the prize money had increased to the point that the society was able to qualify for a Class B category. This was approved by the Ontario Government in April 1965, during the term of president Ken Holland. To qualify, it was necessary for a society to have paid $3,000 for straight agricultural prizes for a period of three years previous. This category permits the society to receive grants from the federal government in cattle and sheep and swine classes as well as on improvements and judge's costs.

In 1966 a new swine barn was built, which is being used for an assembly yard by the Ontario Hog Marketing Board. In 1970, with the late Carman Downey as president, new accommodations for sheep was commenced and in the following year a roof was put over these pens and a new poultry building was also erected.

The gate receipts of $5,130, and prize money of $7,300 established a record in 1971.

The office of president has always been held for two years, with exception of John Thompson who held it for three years, due to the untimely death of vice-president, John Trotter, in 1951.

Due to the fact that the local arena has been condemned, negotiations between the Agricultural Society and the Recreational Steering Committee have taken place in regard to a site for a new Community Centre. On May 24th, the Society approved of the Centre being placed on the Fair Grounds and leased one half of the infield to the Recreational Committee. This building can be used for fair accommodation.

Eldorado United Church Women

On a pleasant September afternoon, the 5th, eleven women met at Eldorado United Church. The president, Lois Blackburn, opened the meeting and due to the necessity for some to leave early the service was held before the business.

The Theme being on missions, the worship service began with the hymn "In Christ there is no east nor west," and Dora Palmer read James 1:22-27.

The leader, Minnie Moorcroft, chose meditation on this passage of Scripture - "Doing God's Word" - from a little book given to her by a Dutch lady somewhere in Texas. An appropriate prayer from the World Day of Prayer was read.

Using the Chinese proverb, "Tell me; I forget. Show me; I may remember. Involve me, I understand", Minnie introduced the reading of "A Senior Citizen wields a Scalpel" taken from a mandate newsletter. This is an interview with Dr. Bob McClure who has been much involved in helping in many countries. Alma Moorcroft took the part of the interviewer and Minnie that of Dr. McClure. To the last question, asked about the success of his message to Canadians Dr. McClure answered, "Could be I won't succeed, but I'll certainly die trying."

The group then participated in a discussion period on the many differences in mission work now from a few years ago. In concluding the program Minnie M.

shared with the group something learned at the Bay of Quinte Conference in Peterborough. Two young ordinants, Bob and Ted, from Renfrew, enacted the Lord's Prayer with the Voice speaking intermittently (from behind a curtain) Mary Taylor took the part of Ted - the Voice.

A quick business period ensued chiefly planning the October Tea and bake sale. Further comments on mission work answered the call of the roll.

Instead of the usual bit of recreation Audrey Chambers asked for current events since we had not met together here since July. Lois closed the meeting with prayer.

PUBLIC MEETS MANPOWER COMMITTEE

had done their share. Since this request was not forthcoming, Mr. Gelok met with some of the community leaders, saw a need for this special service and decided to form a committee of interested citizens to help the workers. An agreement was then signed with both the provincial and federal governments for funding of the project which amounted to $11,000, ($10,000 from the federal government and $1,000 from the provincial government).

Manpower Consultative Program

They first appointed the members to the working committee who then must decide what to do with the money and stick to that decision. The committee would then have to decide, among themselves, whether the program can work, and, if the majority feel that the program cannot do what it is intended to do, the program is stopped, the committee figures the cost to that point, they take that amount of money and all is forgotten.

There are several advantages to this program:

1) Privacy - A Manpower representative deals directly with the people in the community and tries to help them get the type of job that they want and are trained for.

2) This is a completely voluntary program designed to help those who are really interested in finding work. There is no pressure applied. You take advantage of it only if you feel it can help you.

3) When three hundred people become unemployed at about the same time it puts too much pressure on the Manpower office to be able to treat each and everyone of them as an individual. In this case, without the committee, the former employees of the mine might be treated as one of three thousand unemployed from the area, whereas, with the committee, they would be treated as one of three hundred employees from the Marmaraton Mine.

4) The committee would be dealing with the employers at the top level and not just a secretary who may or may not be allowed to take applications. They would make a businesslike appointment with the president of the company, who can normally appreciate the dilemma and, who invariably considers people on a list because it is the cheapest way of hiring and because the committee does wield some clout.

5) The committee tries to hit the job market that is not covered by Manpower. The Canada Manpower service only hits about 25% of the job market while the other 75% is achieved by word of mouth or being hired on the spot by being in the right spot at the right time.

6) The committee is interested in keeping the people in the municipalities. They will, therefore, spend money on attracting industry to the area and, because they are not interested in placement statistics, they are interested in good jobs for the people. Also, U.I.C. gets three hundred people actively looking for work through the committee.

The committee stressed that, because you have this committee working for you doesn't mean that you can stop looking for work as an individual. You could walk into a place of employment at the opportune time and find that they are looking for three people or to contact two more people in the same predicament as yourself. The committee will help draw up and print resumes for this purpose.

The committee felt that, with the amount of money that had been made available to them, they should be in operation for six or seven months if they were careful. It would be up to the people involved to see that they were registered at U.I.C. and that they could register in as many Manpower Centres as they were actively looking for employment. The committee should take the active job search pressure off which means that the members would not have to travel to Belleville every month. Any problems encountered by the members should immediately be brought to the attention of the committee so that they can give any necessary assistance. The committee also expressed interest in work with any other committees in the area who were interested in solving a common problem.

Mr. Wilf Terrior, chairman of the committee, stated, "We will be going to Manpower to find out just how much clout we have and, within the next few weeks, will be talking to companies like Outboard Marine, General Motors, Madawaska Mines, Armbr, Proctor and Gamble, Robin Hood and G.E. to make them aware of our problem and to give them the list of names of the men involved with the committee." Many of the men who attended the meeting had already visited many of these companies with very limited success, but it was hoped that the committee would have some success where an individual would not. Mr. Gelok expressed some confidence that this would actually make a difference.

Without knowing it, you could be a turn-off.

Do you always take a bath, instead of a shower which uses less power?

Do you fill a kettle full to make a single cup?
Turn on the washing machine for just a few things?

Leave the TV on when no one's watching?

And do you often forget to turn off the porch light even though everyone's home in bed?

Any of these thoughtless little habits can make you a turn-off. Because waste of electricity, like anything that everybody really needs, can turn people off.

Wouldn't you rather turn off a light bulb than turn off a friend? Think about how you use electricity.

Wasting electricity turns people off.

Trenton Air Force Day

CFB Trenton.... Astra Airshow 78 in conjunction with Armed Forces Day at Canadian Forces Base Trenton will be held on Saturday, 23 September. Building on the success of the three previous years which saw an average of 30,000 visitors the show will be dedicated to the men and women of the Canadian Armed Forces. Feature of the show is a "Salute to Belleville", a neighbouring city which is celebrating its 100th anniversary.

The airshow, considered to be the largest and best in Eastern Canada, will have more than 50 aircraft in aerial displays, with another 50 on ground display. Feature performers are the famed Snowbirds in their jet trainers, performing precision formation aerobatics; Oscar Boesch with his dazzling aerobatics in a glider; Gerry Younger, demonstrating international competition level aerobatics in his Pitts special; and the Skyhawks parachute display team, with their massed jumps and free fall aerobatics.

On display also will be the CFS Freedom Fighter in air to air refueling with a Boeing 707; CF101 Voodoo jet interceptors, and the CF104 Star fighter- the "missile with a man in it." Giant Hercules aircraft will drop a bulldozer on target and Buffalo aircraft will display short take-off and landings.

New National Wildlife Area

Environment Minister Len Marchand, formally announced today that a new National Wildlife Area has been established on the southeastern tip of Prince Edward County, 40 kilometres southwest of Kingston, Ontario.

Named Prince Edward Point National Wildlife Area, the property extends over 190 hectares of grasslands, scrub and marsh. The Minister said it was being preserved because of its importance as a stopping-off spot for large concentrations of birds that migrate across the peninsula in spring and fall.

Mr. Marchand stressed that the regulations governing public activities on the National Wildlife Area would not interfere with the day-to-day activities of the commercial fishermen who dock at the Point Pelee.

"We have no wish to impede the existing commercial fishing enterprise at Prince Edward Point," the Minister said. "Activities normally associated with fishing will be allowed under the terms of the leases held by the commercial fishermen."

This latest acquisition brings the number of National Wildlife Areas to 40. Most were established to protect wetland habitat for waterfowl. Prince Edward Point is the first such area where the protected habitat is used by large numbers of non-game birds.

More hearings scheduled on Eldorado Nuclear Project

Ottawa, August 31, 1978: Under the federal Environmental Assessment and Review Process, an Environmental Assessment Panel will begin public hearings on November 7, 1978 on a proposal by Eldorado Nuclear Limited for the construction of an uranium hexafluoride refinery on one of three Ontario sites. The three sites submitted by Eldorado for consideration by the Panel are in the Port Hope, Sudbury and Blind River regions.

An Environmental Impact Statement for each site, describing the potential environmental and related social and community impacts of the project, is in preparation by the company and its consultants. This document will form the basis of the panel review and will be available for public study at many locations in each of the proposed project areas. A list of viewing centres is attached.

Members of the public interested in the project will have approximately 8 weeks in which to review the Environmental Impact Statement for their area, prior to the start of the public hearings. The environmental impact statement for the Port Hope region will be available on or about September 5, 1978 for Sudbury on or about September 14 and for Blind River, on or about September 30, 1978.

Public hearings will be held in Port Hope at the Durham Memorial Temple on November 7, 8, 9, 15 and 16 1978. In Sudbury, hearing will be held on November 21, 22, 23, 28 and 29 at the Holiday Inn, Sudbury. In Blind River, hearings will be held at the North Shore Friendship Inn on December 5, 6, 7, 12 and 13 1978. Hearing times at all locations are from 2 to 5 p.m. and from 7 to 10 p.m. daily.

Panel public hearings are open to all interested parties. Those wishing to submit written briefs should do so in advance to the address below. These briefs can be supported at the hearings by brief oral statements. Persons wishing to make oral statements may register in advance with the Federal Environmental Assessment Review Office or at the hearings. Full procedures for the hearings will be announced at a later date. The office will be pleased to provide advice, guidance or any further information required to any person wishing to participate in the review of this project.

Once in a lifetime fishing trip

by JEANNETTE MOORE

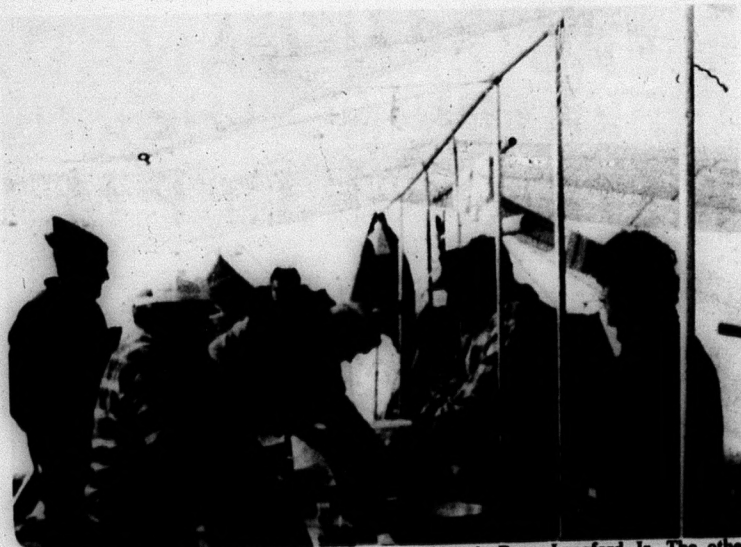

Four local men returned recently from "a trip of a lifetime". Francis Parker, Doug Langford Sr., Doug Langford Jr. and Al Kloosterman joined a group of 18 fishermen organized by the Venture Club for a week's fishing expedition 200 miles above the Arctic circle in the Northwest Territories. These trips are an annual event set up by the club in conjunction with the Voyagers' Club and Hunters and Anglers' Association.

Flight was arranged on the regular commercial Nordair jet to Hall's Beach, N.W.T., a community on the Dewline consisting of about 50 Inuit families and a number of Americans. From this settlement they flew by twin Otter plane inland to Hall's Lake, 50 miles distant, a very large lake about 25 miles square. This was the first time this particular lake had been opened to an organized fishing party and one might expect to get big fish there - which they did. The largest was a 14-lb. Arctic char, but lake trout was also caught.

However, some days they were unable to fish because of pack ice drifting in to shore. This lake is usually locked in with ice for 11 months of the year and this was the first year since 1956 that the ice had not gone out in the summer.

It was Francis Parker who said the trip was a "once in a lifetime adventure" and "an experience you would never forget". But Doug Langford Sr. is getting to be an old hand at such Arctic jaunts. He was on

ISSUES IN THE LAW

"Ask Andre"

Writing a weekly article is often a very one way form of communication. For the most part your words and opinions seem to disappear into a void of outdated issues. This is why it is always interesting to be asked a question arising from the column and to hear from people who enjoyed it.

Because of the busy news season with a municipal election coming up, and because all things must come to an end, this will be the last of the weekly articles I have enjoyed writing for half a year. In it I will give answers to some general question asked in response to the articles. As the old disclaimer goes, "every case is unique," so don't sue me if some of the answer are not exactly right for your own similar but unique problem.

Question

I was charged with careless driving after an accident but the Officer got the date of the accident wrong on the summons. Can I get off?

Answer

The Officer has 21 days to issue a summons for an offence which, like careless driving comes under the Highway Traffic Act. If within the 21 day period he doesn't correct his mistake and you later go to court and can show that the date is incorrect you will get off.

Question

What rate do real estate agents normally charge for selling property?

Answer

Real Estate agents charge according to the nature of the property sold. For residential property the rate is normally 5 per cent; for farm lands 6 per cent; for vacant land or cottages 10 per cent. A slight extra charge will be made if the property is put on Multiple Listing - that is if a description is circulated to other agents. In the last two years agents have been more prepared to modify their charges on new or higher priced properties.

Question

A year ago, I left my husband and took my two year old girl with me. He was out of a job and I didn't ask for any support from him. Now he is back working while I and my daughter are on the breadline. Can he be made to pay support?

Answer

Yes. Under the new Family Law Reform Act, the husband is obliged, if he is able, to assist his wife and children no matter what the circumstances of their separation. If you have a solicitor make application for you to family court the judge will set a weekly payment in view of you and your husband's needs and income.

Question

When we bought our cottage there was no survey on it but our west limit was, we thought marked by an old rail fence. Our neighbour now says his deed goes 6 feet past the fence into my lot. He wants to remove the fence.

Answer

Normally a distinct old fence line will entitle you to a "possessory" title right up to the fence. This is even if for one reason or another, your deed doesn't properly describe your lot. If the fence has stood for more than ten years and you and the former owners of your cottage, have maintained the land up to it for that time, the fence should not be removed without your permission.

Question

We live full time in the States but have always wanted a cottage in your area. When we approached a real estate agent he advised us that the taxes would be so high that we might better forget it? Should we forget it?

Answer

Yes. The Ontario Government passed a law in 1974 requiring non-residents of Canada to pay a transfer tax of 20 per cent of the purchase price of any land they buy in Ontario. On a $20,000.00 cottage that is $4,000.00 tax. May I suggest a trailer instead?

Question

I painted and repaired the veranda of a lady's house at an agreed on price of $900.00. Its been 6 weeks and I still haven't been paid. How can I collect?

Answer

If a workman is not paid he can place a "Mechanic's Lien" on the home he improves if he delivers the appropriate form to the Local Registry Office within 37 days of completing the job. You have missed your time limit but you can still sue for the money. As under $1,000.00 is involved you can sue in Small Claims Court. All you do is write out a proper claim identifying the lady and the agreed on price, and describing the job. Deliver it to the clerk of your local Small Claims Court and wait for your day in court.

Question

My wife and I have just realized that, although we don't hate each other, we don't like each other very much either. We don't want to live together anymore. We don't have any children and want to get divorced.

Answer

Our society hasn't reached the point where you and your wife can get a divorce just because you want one. If you want a divorce within 3 years of separating you will have to be able to show that your partner has committed what we call a 'matrimonial fault' - that is cruelty, adultery or a list of rare and less savoury 'offences'. After 3 years separation you are entitled to divorce if you satisfy a judge that you and your spouse cannot be reconciled.

At the schoolhouse

by Naomi Wakan

Our first student

We agree to billet a student. We are not sure what it's all about, but he is a student who is 'broadening his experience'; his group leader tells us and we are a school aren't we? At least we live in a school-house and make like we know something so the set-up is perfect.

He arrives along with his transistor and crossword book. Our hearts sink and we wonder who has to lay themselves open to new experiences? We re-call that we asked for a non-smoker with muscles, so feel we can't complain. The first few days he wandered aimlessly. It appears that he is not interested in herbs, organic gardening, folk-dance, home-steading etc. But he holds himself open bravely and repeats "I am getting new experiences". By the end of the week, as he is presented with his 14th plate of salad and bowl of yoghurt, the repetition of the phrase has become somewhat robot-like.

We are perplexed what to do with him. He complains that they are not his generation. True, we are child-like and he is a bored old man. The new experiences he seems to yearn for most appear not very different from his old ones of hanging out

One foot in the furrow' by Bob Trotter

Letters are appreciated by Bob Trotter, Eldale Rd. Elmira, Ont. N3B 2C7

I have been watching sunsets for more than 40 years. Are they getting more beautiful?

For six weeks this summer, I was able, with great personal sacrifice and tremendous effort, to do nothing. That is, I accepted no summer assignments - mostly because nobody asked me - and I took no summer courses at university. I just puttered around home.

I did more horseback riding this summer than I have in 10 years. I spent more time watching birds and more time just settin' in the sun than I have since I was a child.

We couldn't afford to take a decent holiday this summer, either, because I haven't had a raise in two years. (It's tough being a community college teacher).

I watched some gorgeous sunsets and even saw a couple of brilliant sunrises.

Living in the country affords a better opportunity to see the sky. I would hate to be surrounded by highrises and not be able to see a horizon in every direction.

The sky on Monday evening of Labor Day was one of the most awe-inspiring I have ever seen. Trust nature to end the summer months with a fantastic display.

Around the dying sun on the western horizon, the sky was a fire-bright red with purple clouds and fuschia cloudlets. The wisp of a jet trail made a slash of pure gold across the scarlet.

The pink glow spread slowly from the horizon all across to the north and south and there was even a suggestion of pink in the east. But to the north, the purple sky was lit with flashes of lightning as a storm 30 or 40 miles away rumbled and groaned.

To see the beautiful glow of red, gold and blue in the west and the menacing spread of the storm through scalloped whites and blacks in the north was a striking contrast.

I had to stop my horse and stare at the awesome beauty of that summer sky.

The buckskin seemed to be affected by it, too. Instead of dancing on the spot, she looked into the clouds for the longest time with her velvety nose still and her pretty little ears full forward.

It is such scenes that remain in a man's mind and heart for many months. When the winter snows are piled high and thick around the house and the wind is cruel and piercing, I will think of that summer sky and be a little more contented with my lot in life. I will feel, through the terrible coldness of a howling Canadian blizzard, a trickle of warmth and hope because of that sunset.

At the time, I was worried about the summer Chagex account, the dentist's bill, the car insurance, the taxes, the garage bill and the bank loan. I had gone riding that evening because the cares and worries of the world seemed to be hanging on my shoulder.

All that money owed. No summer job to help pay the bills. A cold winter approaching and more Christmas bills.

But I am a Christian, I thought, as I watched with increasing wonderment. If I have faith as much as a grain of mustard seed, I must realize that a loving Christ created this beautiful world. His hand was evident in that inspiring sunset and storm-tossed sky.

His beauty was reflected in His handiwork.

If, as a Christian, I believe in a personal God who loves every grey hair on my head, then surely He who creates such a sky can take care of me and my little worries.

In fact, before that sunset completely disappeared, I felt humble and contrite. I bowed my head in gratitude while the mare lowered her head to graze.

A loving father who creates such beauty will surely see to it that I will find enough money to keep my debtors satisfied.

with the gang and the chicks. In desperation we remember that our chicks are to have a winter home under the porch and that this needs digging out. So we cry "Dig", and abracadabra he becomes a radiant young man and digs. His afternoon siestas seem now somewhat more understandable and his firm statement that work and play are not the same thing, likewise.

the fishing trip to Baffin Island last year. To him the highlight of this year's adventure was the way the pilot handled the Twin Otter landing on the beach of the lake. The plane, of course, was heavily loaded and he was amazed at the short take-off and landing.

The group report the nights chilly but the days pleasant and they were quite comfortable in the tent setup that was provided. Everything was flown in with them except for a Hudson Bay traders canoe which an Eskimo brought through a river and the lake from Hall's Beach with difficulty because of the ice. There were individual plastic tents set up in a circular formation and over all a large canopy stretched so that the effect was of separate rooms for sleeping and a central area for assembling and cooking. They ate mostly fish and caribou. The latter was provided by the Inuit, the only person of the group who could legally hunt. He shot two caribou within three miles of the camp and the 18 campers consumed four back quarters during the week, the remainder going to the Eskimo. "It had a taste all its own," reported Doug Langford Sr. "You couldn't say it was like any other meat, but it was good". They also brought back 125 lbs. of cleaned fish which they divided amongst the group and Mr. Langford has a nice 27" specimen of an Arctic char in spawning color which he is having mounted.

Al Kloosterman says he has travelled Canada east to west but he found this Arctic experience very worthwhile. "The country is lonely but nice," he said. He took the most pictures and it is his prints that are reproduced here. He wanted to bring back some of the atmosphere and flavor of the country so as to remember it, and we are glad he did so that it can be shared with all the paper's readers.

This is a general view of the shore of ice-filled Hall's Lake and the tent camp of the group of 18 men who flew to the Arctic for a fishing expedition this August. Small tents are set up in a circle and a large plastic tent stretched over all. This was the first time since 1965 ice had not left Hall's Lake in the summer. Photo was taken by Al

Loyalist Intergration

Recently the Candian Bureau for International Education announced that 500 young Nigerians would be coming to Canadian colleges and universities. Loyalist College was chosen to provide a one year pre-college entrance program for thirty of these students. After the first year these students will enter various technology programs. It is anticipated that five such groups will come to Loyalist College between now and 1982 and because the students will be here for three to four years the entire project will not be completed until the mid 1980's.

The full cost of the program is being paid for by the Nigerian government and consequently will not place any financial burden on the Canadian taxpayer. The integration of the Nigerian program into Loyalist College will no result in Canadian students being excluded from the regular College programs.

President H. Young stated that the project will have a significant impact on the local economy when one considers the cost of education, food, clothing and housing being paid for by the Nigerian government. It is anticipated that the total project will bring $4.0 million into the local economy.

Junior Ag. Program

The 1978 Junior Agriculturalist Program has drawn to a close after another successful summer. The program was designed to give your people from non-farm background an opportunity to experience agriculture at the farm level. The Junior Agriculturalists spent their summer with a Host Family and took part in everyday farm activities. Although their tasks varied greatly from farm to farm, haymaking was an experience that nearly all the Junior Agriculturalists shared.

Canada Packers Quilt Competition

The first annual Canada Packers Championship Quilt Competition will be held in co-operation with the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies at their Annual Convention, February 21 & 22, 1979 at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto.

Canada Packers Limited will offer to purchase the winning quilt selected at the Annual Convention for an established price of $600. This quilt will be added to the Canada Packers Quilt Collection. According to Murray Stewart, Public Relations Manager of Canada Packers Limited, the competition will be one means of finding additional quilts of excellent quality for the Canada Packers Quilt Collection. The Quilt Collection is now in popular demand by fairs, museums, art galleries, craft guilds, etc. across the Province.

An award of $100 will be given to the local Agricultural Society where the exhibitor of the winning quilt at the Annual Convention first won the privilege to compete. This money is to be used the following year as prizes in the Quilt Section of the Ladies' Division.

To be eligible for the Canada Packers Championship Quilt Competition, entries must place first or second in a Quilt Competition held at District Annual Meetings. The quilts entered in District Competitions must have won the Grand Champion ribbon at a local Fair.

In addition prizes of $25 for first place, $15 for second, and $10 for third will be awarded at each District Competition.

Judges for the Canada Packers Championship Quilt Competition at the Annual Convention will be supplied by the Societies Branch of the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food under the auspices of the Director of the Branch.

Money Does Grow on Trees

Each year, Ministry of Natural Resources Nurseries throughout the Province produce millions of trees for planting by Ministry Staff, as well as stock for sale to the public. Production of such a large volume of seedlings requires an enormous supply of seeds.

This year the Lindsay District seed collection quota requires seed-cones from hard maple, red oak, white ash, red pine, European larch, and hemlock. Should you be able to obtain a supply of seed-cones from any of these tree species, we will pay you for them. Contact the Lindsay District Office prior to collecting any seed. An appropriate contract may then be prepared. Be sure that you do not pick first and expect to sell if you do not have a contract; our quota could possibly have already been reached.

Prices paid for seed-cones range from 25 cents per hectolitre for red oak and hard maple to 60 cents per hectolitre for European larch. A hectolitre is about 2.5 bushels. Seed must be ripe and cones should be this year's unopened cones.

For further information please contact the Lindsay District Office of the Ministry of Natural Resources.

Fuelwood sale

Interested in cutting your own wood for the fireplace or stove this year?

Saturday September 9 the Ministry of Natural Resources is holding a public sale of standing hardwood fuelwood in the Ganaraska Forest. The sale will commence at 9:00 a.m. at the Ministry's Ganaraska Forest Headquarters 2.4 kilometres (1.5 miles) north of the village of Elizabethtown. Elizabethtown is located on Northumberland County Road No. 9, 12.5 kilometres (7.8 miles) east of the village of Kirby on highway 115-35.

Approximately 121 individual blocks of fuelwood will be sold for $5.00 a cord on a lottery basis. The trees to be cut in each block are marked with yellow paint; volumes range from 2 to 13 cords with an average of about 3 cords per block. Sales will be limited to one block per person.

For further information please contact our Forest Management Staff at the Lindsay District Office of the Ministry of Natural Resources.

Regeneration of trees

Southern Ontario towns and cities are blessed with graceful old trees adorning many streets. Many country homes protected and beautified by mature tree windbreaks are profiting from the foresight of generations past. Are we now exercising the same foresight?

Most municipalities have a program of planting young trees to enhance new streets in subdivisions, and this is important. But what about the older streets of our towns—streets that may now be lined with those majestic old trees, many planted over a century ago! Perhaps at the peak of their beauty, it is often easy to overlook the fact that they will not be with us forever. In many cases, NOW is the time to underplant the saplings required to replace the old trees when they die. Each year of growth is important to ensure the underplanted young trees have grown enough to replace the old ones when they deteriorate and must be removed. This same regeneration principle applies to rural windbreaks.

Now is the time to ensure that the present practical beauty of many of our older streets and rural windbreaks does not become a thing of the past.

Vacuum Cleaner Racket

The Centre has been advised of a racket that is operating in the area in relation to sales of the more expensive vacuum cleaners in the home.

Most people will have, at one time or another received a phone call from a vacuum cleaner representative asking for permission to visit the home for a demonstration, at the same time promising a "free" gift if a demonstration is agreed to. There is nothing wrong with this, as long as both parties understand and respect the ground rule that apply.

First, all representations made by the salesman must be truthful and accurate. He cannot suggest you are buying a NEW cleaner if in fact you are buying a USED or demonstration model.

Our information is that, in many instances, cleaners that have been sold and re-possessed, have been taken back to the office, cleaned up and resold as NEW.

Further we have been given instances of pressures to finalize a sale.

The provisions of the Consumer Protection Act, the Business Practices Act as well as several others, apply to above sales.

Don't forget-- you have 48 hours after you have received your DUPLICATE copy of the sales contract to cancel by sending a registered letter to the company. You may also complain to the Consumer Services officer at 139 George St. North in Peterborough, telephone 1-705-743-8728. He is at the Centre for free consultation every other Wednesday. Call for an appointment.

Don't forget, we will be at the Quinte Exhibition. If you have any problems or question, we will be only too pleased to do what we can to help you.

Saddle Your Dreams

with Naomi Wakan

Please be sure to include a few details of the day on which your dream occurred since they may give a clue to what triggered the dream.

Dear Mrs. Wakan,

I have been thinking of turning to a new line of work when I had the following dream: I dreamed that I was at an airport and waiting in line to get my ticket. Someone kept throwing my baggage down a baggage chute and I started to panic for I thought my passport and money was in it. However, when I came to the counter, I opened my wallet and found enough travellers checks there.

suggested interpretation: this is a very common kind of dream. One is travelling on to a new place (position, trade, etc.), one doubts that one has the qualities, talents, confidence to move into the new role. At such a time, of course, we all cling to old luggage (old comfy, non-challenging roles). It is an act of trust to rely entirely on our present strengths without relying on past achievements. If we can summon up that trust, we will find that we have everything that is needed for the journey. Here is a long scattered dream also about a ticket:

Dear Naomi Wakan,

I have just got some books on meditation and have been thinking of trying it, when I had this strange dream. I entered a house looking for an Anglican missionary in China. You are sitting in a chair looking very inscrutable. You do not feel it a appropriate time to see him. I literally go off in two directions at once; my body goes to the living room and my head is exploring his study. Suddenly in the living room I realize this dream is not mine. I look at my hands but they seem too powerful. The house now has become a grocery store with a lot of people milling around. They are going to a movie, amongst them is the person whose dream it is. I have a ticket, tho I do not intend to go, and these people need it. I reach in my pocket to find it.

suggested interpretation: a very strange dream indeed. Obviously part of you has doubts that this is the right time to start meditating. The Anglican missionary in China from one point of view is incongruous since the West has its own forms of religion and so has the East. So in a way you would be choosing a way of centring alien to your tradition (I am assuming that you are going to try an Eastern type of meditation). On the other hand it could be an attempt on your part to get it together, join all the parts of you. You are certainly scattered in the dream-- your head wanting to withdraw into study. Its as if you do not yet trust the power of your hands, whether for creativity or manual labor. The dream does seem to have nourished you in some way (grocery store) but you're still unwilling to go with the crowd although it would be quite easy for you (you have the ticket). There are many forms of centering or being completely within yourself and this is obviously your concern (you even give your own dream to someone else). We feel we have to do exotic actions, wear strange clothes or go to distant places to find ourselves, yet the dream is telling you that it is in the power of your own hands that everything will come together for you.

Mrs. Wakan is doing a series of dream groups for those of you who are seriously interested in understanding your dreams. Please do not apply if you under medical supervision of any kind.

Flying High — Hamilton motocross rider Al Logue (3) is high on conditioning, working out three hours a day to stay in shape for one of the toughest sports in the world. Motocross riders are rated second in conditioning against athletes from all sports. Alan Jaggard (448) can take the pounding of motocross.

Conditioning is the Weapon Riders use to Fight Fatigue

Al Logue and Alan Jaggard had to know the real enemy before they had any success in motocross.

One of the fastest-growing forms of motor sport in the world, motocross is off-road motorcycle racing. Often, races are over terrain that would tax a mountain goat.

The enemy, as Logue and Jaggard know, is not the rugged trails, nor the bucking, kicking machine.

It's fatigue, the sickening exhaustion that sets in toward the end of a 30-or 40-minute moto (races consist of two " motos," with the overall winner determined on results of both motos). The weariness can turn legs to jelly and arms to leaden weights.

Conditioning is the only way to combat the fatigue. In recent fitness tests of athletes from all sports, motocross ranked second in the world edged slightly by soccer players.

Logue, a 23-year-old from Hamilton, Ontario works hard to make sure he isn't going to be the one who fades toward the end of a gruelling 40-minute moto.

He spends three hours a day exercising at the Hamilton YMCA, running three-to-five miles, riding an exercise bicycle at 30 mph and doing 60 sit-ups a day to strengthen stomach muscles.

It's paid off for Logue, earning him a factory ride with Yamaha Canada last year. This year he will ride Yamahas in both 125-cc class and 250-cc class. Which means he will compete in four motos in a single day, a schedule that only a superbly-conditioned athlete could undertake.

Jaggard from Burlington, Ontario is sponsored by a local Honda Dealer. He is only 20 but already a top-ranked Expert rider with Junior and Senior championships to his credit. He spent the winter involved in a strict conditioning program that would allow him to go to California this spring, ready to race.

Jaggard's theory is that the spring races in California, which are becoming an annual ritual for him, will give him a conditioning edge and riding edge on his Canadian competition.

AIR FORCE DAY

The gates will open at 10.00 a.m. and visitors will have large displays of military hardware to visit on static display. Featured aircraft are the C-5 Galaxy, world's largest aeroplane; the C141 Star Lifter, and many of the contenders for Canada's new fighter programme, including the Eagle and Tomcat.

One other services in the military are represented with Canada's elite Special Service Force being the featured performers. Their commandos will put on an unarmed combat show as well as having much of their weaponry available for viewing. This will include field artillery pieces, armoured Lynx reconnaissance vehicle and hand weapons. With this will be a field treatment medical centre demonstration and a United Nations outpost display.

Canada's Mapping and Charting establishment will present a historical display and the Navy will have a 30 foot model of the new DDH280 Destroyer. In all some 65,000 square feet of indoor space is devoted to displays. The City of Belleville will have a 7,000 square foot display.

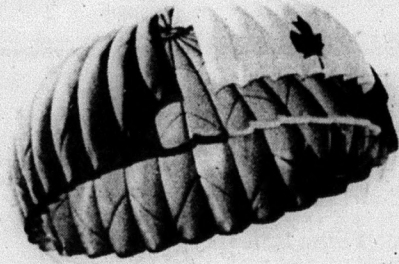

Throughout the day visitors will be entertained by massed bands, in three outdoor and one indoor band areas. The CFB Trenton Pipe Band will start the day at 10:15 a.m. with a marching display. More than a dozen concessionaires will sell food and souvenirs and the Air Cadets will sell a special Armed Forces Day magazine. This magazine, designed to competition level standards will feature award-winning photographs, a story by Richard Rohmer an historical section on Belleville, and the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, and a description of the duties of the military in a Modern World.

Farmers beware of silage gas

Agricultural safety experts in Ontario are concerned that silage gas could be a problem again this fall. Three farm workers near Gananoque were killed as a result of exposure to this highly toxic gas in 1977.

Jim Ross, Senior Safety Consultant for the Provincial Farm Safety Association, says that a large variation in climate during this growing season may have placed enough stress on the corn crop to allow it to produce silage gas once the plant material is put into the silo.

Mr. Ross advises farmers that crops should be mature before they are cut, also that harvesting should be avoided immediately after a rainfall.

Silage gas may be recognizable as a yellowish-brown gas with a bleach-like odour. It can form within hours of filling a silo. The Association advises farmers that the problem with the gas is that it may be present for two to three weeks, once the silo is filled.

The Association advises farmers to keep everyone away from the silo once it is filled. If for any reason it is necessary to enter the silo during the two to three week danger period, a self contained breathing apparatus must be worn.

The Association publishes a booklet and a fact sheet on silage gas, which are available from the Association or from your local Ministry of Agriculture and Food offices.

A Sunny Success.

Madoc's annual fall fair was a huge success this year partly because, for a change, the weatherman co-operated and supplied beautiful fall weather, but mainly because exhibitors and showmen came out in large numbers to support their local fair. And, of course, a fair wouldn't be a fair without a good turnout of spectators to watch and enjoy all the exhibits, shows and all the rest that goes towards the make-up of a small community fair.

On Friday night many of the exhibitors that would be putting on displays in the arena were hard at work setting up these displays and preparing for the next two days. The midway had been pretty well set up by this time although they did not do very much business that first night. The majority of people who showed up that night were primarily there to watch the drawing matches and this was where the people got their first indication that the fair would be bigger and better than we have seen in many years. There were a large number of entries in the drawing match with the competition very keen. Many entries from outside the area made sure that none of the local men were going to go home as king of the mountain without at first proving that they were worthy of the title. The evening of competition was

Manpower Ctte. gets response

Manpower Committee Chairman Will Terrier reports that he is meeting with a positive response from companies he has contacted to the point where men have already been hired by Outboard Marine in Peterborough.

"I can already say at this point that this committee is definitely paying off. Out Board Marine has hired two - Ross Holland of Deloro and Larry Buchanan of Havelock - and they are still interviewing. General Electric in Peterborough will be

West Indian dinner

Mother's German Restaurant and Tavern served a very unusual meal for a German restaurant on Monday evening, Sept. 18th. Since this restaurant has been part of our community, they have become famous for their German meals and costumes, but the meal on Monday night consisted of a salad which contained lettuce, tomatoes and advocados, carrot juice, peas, fried plantain, green bananas and plain rice and a fresh fruit cocktail and coffee or tea. As you may have guessed this was definitely not a German meal.

Barry and Maureen Lewis, who recently became the new owners of the restaurant, have felt that the German cuisine had been such a success in the area that the people who frequent the restaurant may be interested in trying meals from other countries and areas around the world. To test this theory, the Lewises decided to serve a West Indian dinner and, according to the very positive response from the majority of people in attendance, the idea could be a successful one.

For this experiment, special invitations were sent out to a cross section of the people of the area to see if the people would be interested in trying a meal from another part of the world that might

50th ANNIVERSARY

On Sept. 18th, 1928 a group of sixteen women met at the home of Mrs. Ernest Moore, of Remington, and organized the Cooper-Remington Women's Institute. To do worthwhile things, to help discover, stimulate and develop leadership, to learn new and better methods of doing daily tasks was the dream of the founders and it was a good one as evidenced by the growth of our organization.

This was part of the opening statements at the Cooper-Remington Women's Institute, which was celebrating their 50th Anniversary on Wed. Sept. 20th. Sever possibly vary a great deal from the normal meal eaten regularly by Canadians. The invitations stressed that the meal would be West Indian, but the menu was kept a secret until you actually sat down at the table, which was probably a good idea in most cases. The sight of curried goat on the menu may have put many people off before they had even tried it, by doing it this way, the people could try the West Indian meal and, if they found that they could not eat it, they would be served chicken.

Curried Goat Gets Favorable Response

Mrs. Rousseau, a native of Jamaica who is presently living in Belleville, was chef for the evening and she assured me that this was a typical West Indian meal. The Lewises were responsible for supplying Mrs. Rousseau with the necessities for the meal and it might be added that the goat was locally grown.

Contrary to a Canadian's first impression, the fried plantain is not a local weed, but rather, it is a fruit very much resembling a banana with a thicker skin and which cannot be eaten raw. It is therefore fried and, although it does resemble the inner part of the banana, it is a fibrous and very mild tasting fruit that went well on plate with the gravy from the goat over it. Mrs. Rousseau felt that people who visit Jamaica often eat foods that are familiar to them and they fail to try the local dishes. She said, "If you visit Jamaica, it is best to stay at a Jamaican guest house or visit and eat with a Jamaican family if you really want to get an idea of a typical Jamaican meal." The meal that was served on Monday night had to be toned down as far as spices went because the West Indian people like their food extremely spicy and the Lewises felt that the meal might be too spicy for people who are not used to it.

The meal and this unique idea intrigued all of the people who attended and the majority of them indicated that they would like to be invited back to the next dinner of this kind. "We will wait for a few weeks to see what kind of feedback we get from those who attended," said the Lewises, "before we plan the next one. If the response is good, we hope to be able to get different ethnic groups who are capable of cooking for a large number of people to come in and help us with the next dinner of this nature." French, English and Italian cuisine were specifically mentioned as considerations for the next dinner, but others would certainly be considered. The Lewises also changed their costumes and music for these special occasions and they hope to be able to continue this in the future.

Following the dinner on Monday evening, Mother's Restaurant returned to their regular schedule of serving lunches from 12:00 at noon until 4:30 pm and their regular dinner menu is back in effect. Barry and Maureen hope to continue this new and unique idea on a continuing, although not a regular basis.

Maureen Lewis talks with some of the guests at the West Indian dinner that was held at Mother's Restaurant a week from last Monday. Most of the people who attended were impressed with the meal and hoped that this idea would continue.

The bright costumes, the pleasant service, the quiet music and the good food all contributed to the success of the evening. A native Jamaican did the cooking for the evening and, although it was "toned down" as far as spices went, it was still quite a surprise when you took your first taste of the food.

Manpower Ctte.

interviewing four a day starting on Monday (September 25), and we've had calls from as far away as Millhaven asking us about skilled men.

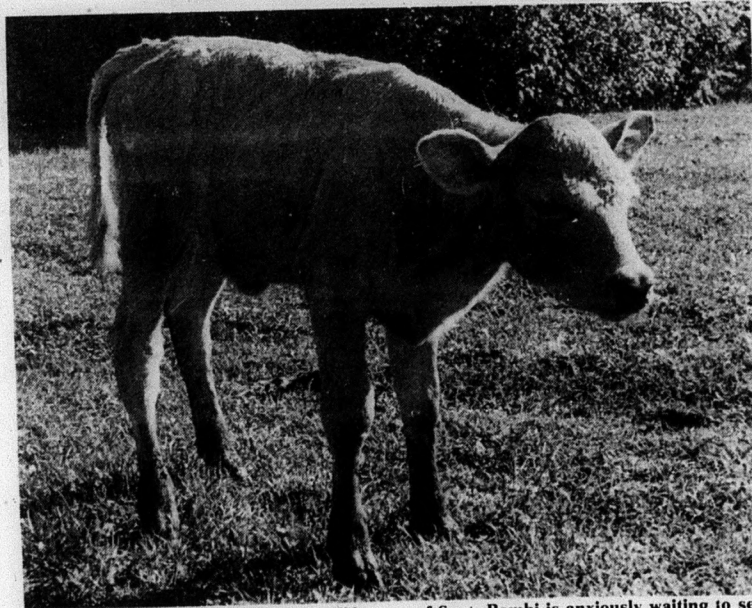

The Manpower Committee is a special office funded by the provincial and federal governments to place miners laid off from the Marmorator Mines. It has representatives on it from the union, salaried employees and the are municipalities.

Mr. Terrior said that the response from the miners themselves has also been good. "I estimate that 80% of the employees have registered at this point. Registering with the office was optional. A total of about 265 employees are eligible.

Mr. Terrior attributed the good response to the fact that many of these companies have experienced similar troubles. "All these larger firms have gone through serious layoffs or shut-downs. They are interested in helping because they know what the situation is."

The committee has been established for an expected period of about eight months. Its main goal is to find employment for as many of the men laid off from the mine as possible. This can be done either by placing employees with other companies or by attracting industry to the area, depending on where the committee decide to concentrate its efforts.

Centre Hastings starts sports season

Kelly Welch was chosen as Centurion of the week because of the excellent game that he had against Centennial. Pat Dowling and Wayne Williamson were given honourable mentions by the coaches.

The Centurion sports program got into full swing this week with some surprises as well as some disappointments. On Wednesday, the girl's basketball teams travelled to Nicholson while the boy's soccer teams travelled to Quinte. The junior girl's team defeated the Nicholson team by the score of 35-31 in a see-saw battle that was won in the fourth quarter. Nicholson, however, took their revenge on the senior girls and defeated them.

Both soccer teams were defeated by Quinte. The juniors were defeated by the score of 4-2 with Scott Shaw and Randy Weir scoring for the Centurions. The senior team lost 4-1 with Don Findlay getting the only marker.

On Thursday, the senior football team travelled to Centennial and were handed their first defeat of the season despite gaining four hundred and thirty-five yards total offense. Only ninety-two of those yards were gained by passing with Kelly Welch and Jamie Lajoie accounting for most of the air attack. Kelly also collected 206 yards on the ground in 35 carries while Wayne Willensen got 101 yards on 17 carries. The final score was Centennial 14, Madoc 7 and Barry Pyear, the coach, said that they were capable of winning the game but the breaks just went against them and they failed to capitalize on their chances. They play Bayside here on Wednesday.

Friday saw the junior football team avenge the senior loss by defeating Centennial 13-6. Centennial went into a first quarter lead of 6-0 but by halftime, the Centurions had regrouped and tied the score. In the third quarter the Centurions took the lead for the first time on a safety touch and they were in control from then on. They cemented the victory in the fourth quarter when they again crossed the Centennial goal line to count another six points.

On Saturday, the Centre Hastings Invitational Volleyball game was held here and the local squad disappointed themselves by being knocked out in the semi-finals by Saunders. They had played excellent ball throughout the regular tournament play and achieved a record of 8-2 won-loss. They got the bye into the semi-finals and the long wait and a couple of disputed calls early in their match with Saunders, may have contributed to their letdown. The players became upset with the officiating and never recovered. They were defeated 15-9 and 15-2.

Saunders then advanced to the finals against David and Mary Thompson, who had defeated Cedarbrae by the scores of 15-3 and 15-10 to advance to the finals. David and Mary Thompson won the tournament by defeating Saunders 13-15, 15-9 and 15-13.

The local boys were disappointed with their showing because they would have liked to win their own tournament. However, they will meet these teams several more times this season and they will just have to return the favour by defeating them at their tournaments.

The Centurion teams started their inter-school play this week with some teams having success while others took some very tough defeats. The David and Mary Thompson team won the volleyball tournament on Saturday.

Keeping in Touch

Prime Minister Trudeau, who has displayed open contempt for the tradition of our parliamentary system wants us to believe that Her Majesty the Queen is happy with his proposed constitutional changes.

Early in September, the Minister of Federal-Provincial Relations, Marc Lalonde, announced that Queen Elizabeth had given her written personal approval to delegate the position to that of a minor functionary.

This is a ridiculous ploy. Obviously, our Queen is not in a position to get into a public dispute with the man who happens to be Prime Minister of Canada. As well, by tradition, she must accept the advice of her Canadian Ministers.

Trudeau tends to forget the importance of the Monarchy, an institution that means stability, an institution which gives confidence to Canadians. The monarchy is a power beyond the Trudeaus of this world, a power not accountable or subservient to the whims of any pressure group.

While the Prime Minister likes to cast himself in the role of champion of national unity, he simply fails to admit that it is under his regime that the bitter rifts which now threaten our existence really took place. It was his bilingualism policy which caused an untold bitterness to develop between two groups of Canadians, it was his free spending and economic mismanagement which are largely responsible for rampant inflation and the fact that over one million Canadians do not have work.

All provincial Premiers have spoken for retention of the monarchy over having Prime Minister Trudeau become our head of state. Why then, would Pierre Trudeau still be pressing to change the monarchy? Perhaps because he wants the Queen of Canada to be delegated a role secondary to his own. This is one point where Rene Levesque and I agree. We are both adamantly opposed to Trudeau becoming head of state. We agree that the monarchy should remain supreme.

MADOC COUNCIL MINUTES

The regular meeting of Council was held on September 5th, 1978 in the Council Chambers at 7:00 with all the Council members present.

The matter of the less expensive cabinets being purchased for the microfilm storage was considered by Council and the consensus of opinion was that, unless the cheaper cabinets were a proper form of storage for microfilm, the correct cabinets should be purchased. Joe Ash moved and Bob Bancroft seconded that the clerk be authorized to pay account of Bell and Howell the amount being of $100.88 for 10 rolls of microfilm. Clerk was also instructed to make sure the present cabinets were the correct type and, if not, to purchase proper cabinets at the price of $351.36.

A delegation from the Ministry of the Environment attended Council regarding the Village taking over the operation of the lagoon. Council advised that the savings proposed by the Ministry were not sufficient and that further consideration should be made in this regard. Council also advised that, as their proposed water and sewer extensions had been severely delayed awaiting information and location for a new well from the Ministry they could not at this time, further consider the operation take-over. Mr. A.E. Symmonds, Mr. Letman and Mr. Spencer of the Ministry understood Council's problem of being unable to make further financial commitments until such time as the grant that had been promised had been verified and requested the clerk to forward application forms to Mike Wade of J.D. Lee Engineering for completion in an attempt to speed up the grant.

Mr. Frank Downey attended Council to give the annual review of the Village insurance. The complete program was reviewed and brought up to date. Mr. Downey advised Council to have an appraisal done on the water tower in order to obtain an up-to-date replacement value. Mr. Downey also recommended that Council look into the municipal errors and commissions insurance that is now available.

Mr. Ralph Renz of Brady, Menninga and McLeod attended Council with a request for a closing of an original road allowance across Block E, west side of Russell Street. As Council could see no possible future requirement for this unopened road allowance, preliminary approval was given, with the purchaser to pay all costs.

Mr. Wayne Hagerman met with Council regarding several matters. He explained that in order to put an entrance in to his house on St. Lawrence Street, he would be required to pay $200.00 to the County. Council advised that, as this street was under the jurisdiction of the County, Council has no control over this. Mr. Hagerman then asked if he was correct in assuming that taxes would go down if more industry located in Madoc and if Madoc Council had heard anything from the Casket Company which had recently located in Prince Edward County. Council advised that if industries came to Madoc taxes would go down and they had not heard from or about the Casket Company. Regarding the subdivision, Mr. Hagerman was advised to contact Mr. Nial Carney for further information regarding a subdivision agreement, have his lawyer draw up such an agreement and present this to Council for approval. Mr. Hagerman then discussed with Council his concern about the Fire Department becoming involved in rescue work with the acquisition of the van and rescue equipment and stated that he felt this had been done without the consent of the volunteer firemen. Reeve Barton assured him that this had been approved by the majority of the firemen and, in order to clear up any misunderstanding, he would attend the next fire department meeting to discuss this with them.

The present by-law restricting use of the sidewalk by merchants was discussed and Council agreed that, if the majority of the merchants feel this by-law is out-dated, they should approach Council to have it amended.

Daryl Kramp moved and Bob Bancroft seconded that the Council of the Corporation of the Village of Madoc hereby concurs with the resolution of the Town of Trenton regarding a change in laws that would provide heavier penalties as well as restitution to victims in the matter of vandalism.

Joe Ash moved and Daryl Kramp seconded that the Council of the Corporation of the Village of Madoc wishes to express their sincere congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Allan Jackson Burris on the

The Fair

Hard workers, children, queens and animals all contributed to the success of the Madoc Fair, with a lot of nice weather thrown in. Mrs. Leonard Trotter was given a gift by Madoc's first fair queen, Doreen Pigden, and six of the seven queens to date posed for this picture in front of the Carlsberg Wagon. The fair started on Friday night and ran through until Sunday night with good attendance at all times.

Agricultural Society Presents

ended with a match between the light and heavy team winners to see who really did have the best team at the fair.

Saturday was an excellent fair day from beginning to end and the crowds began arriving early and continued to increase until sometime in the middle of the afternoon. By 4:30 PM, it was very hard to find any space on the grounds to call your own. The 4-H, livestock and poultry competitions all had many entrants which made things tough for the competitors and judges, but which only served as the ideal situation for the onlookers. All of the 4-H clubs were well represented so that the winner of the various competitions truly was the best showman or showwoman. Also, several good herds of cattle for each class showed up to make that competition very stiff.

The main exhibit building for cooking, crafts, flowers and produce was packed and the judges for these entries really had their work cut out for them. The judges of the cooking must be commended for resisting the temptation of sampling the many cakes, pies and squares that looked so tantalizing. It was definitely a good idea to have these pastries encased in wire, because they looked so good that I am sure many people wished that they could sample the icing on the cakes with their fingers or take a piece of pie or squares and try them. After the people went through this building, the majority of them probably headed for a food booth to satisfy the hunger pains that were unavoidable after seeing all that delicious pastry. The cooking exhibits were accentuated by the displays of crafts and many of the prize plants and flowers that our mothers, wives and daughters are so proud of. There must have been a lot of extra space in many of the houses since there were so many flowers and plants at the fair.

The side hill overlooking the platform and the race track was filled to capacity for most of the afternoon as the people watched the professional and local talent on the stage and the horse races on the track. The people enjoy seeing men and women that they know, up on the stage sawing logs or competing in the various other competitions or listening to the many talented people up on the stage singing their favourite song or playing their favourite instrument. Between shows or races the spectators lounged on the hill talking to people that they may not have seen since last year's fair or else they would slip down to the midway and give the kids another ride or compete in the various games of chance that often accompany a midway. The luckier or more skilful players would often be seen returning with a giant stuffed animal under their arms and a very satisfied smile on their faces.

On Sunday, the crowds again attended the various events although not in the numbers that attended on Saturday. Sunday is the day that the farmers who were forced to work on Saturday attend the fair and the entertainment is directed towards them. There were the saddle and pony shows, the beef cattle competitions, chariot races, the pony drawing matches plus plenty of entertainment on the stage again. Also on Sunday, the goats took over the show rings and they attracted large crowds of spectators that were liberally laced with children.

This year's fair featured a couple of added attractions. The first Fair Queen Reunion was held and this gave everyone a chance to see all of our Queens since the inception of the competition in 1972. Mrs. Leonard Trotter and Mrs. Parks were credited with the initiation of this event and they were honoured along with the queens. Janet Hamilton was the guest speaker for the reunion because she is a local girl who has moved away but has remained involved in this activity. This year she was one of the chaperones for 93 girls at the C.N.E. and she was present to see Dale Bateman place in the top twelve competitors this year. Our queens from 1972 to this year are, Doreen Pigden, Sandra Stein, Debbie Adams, Jennifer Sprague, Joyce Bronson, Dale Bateman and this year's queen, Bev Stein. Bev Stein had the honour of being our Centennial Fair Queen plus she represented the first time that a sister of one of the former queens also had this title.

Another source of great entertainment at the fair this year was the Carlsberg wagon. Everyone loves to see horses hooked up to a wagon, but when you see so many hooked up with fancy harness and pulling a very ornate wagon, it is especially pleasing to the eye. People were always down by the wagon and horses, even when they were unhitched, but as soon as they began to hitch them up, the crowds thronged around them. When it was announced that they were going around the track and into the show ring, the fences were lined with admiring spectators and the drivers of the wagon enhanced their appeal by asking Bev Stein to accompany them on the ride.

The fair is the ideal opportunity for the people of the area to get together and visit, entertain each other, show their prize animals and see the many unusual sights that often accompany the fair. The drawing match was a "good draw" for the crowds on Friday night, the stage show always had many spectators around it, the goats were one of the main attractions on Sunday and the Carlsberg Wagon always had interested onlookers around it for both Saturday and Sunday. As you can see from the picture below, the wagon itself is a real work of art and it is also an art to drive the wagon with eight horses hitched to it.

other Women's Institutes in the area were also invited to attend the celebration along with all former members of the Institute, which resulted in about eighty women in attendance. Among those present were four of the original ladies who formed the charter. They were Mrs. George Harris, Mrs. John Woods, Mrs. Arthur Parks and Mrs. Herb Brady. Mrs. Joe Hollinger was also one of the original members but she was unable to attend. Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Hollinger are also Life Members of the Branch.

The program which was prepared by the women of Cooper-Remington, had on the front cover "The Cooper-Remington Club featuring all the girls. A Mammoth Entertainment (carefully refined by Father Time)." And this could have been a mammoth understatement or just not true at all. The "girls" may not have had the superior singing voices that they once had, but, entertainment was at a premium on this occasion and everyone in attendance enjoyed the program to the utmost. The second part of the program, which was billed as "In the lighter vein" was certainly an understatement because the members of the audience were kept in constant throes of laughter. The acts consisted of Eldwena and Aldwina, the dynamic singing sisters who are cool and funny too. These "sisters" were Goldie Holmes and Eileen Keene and they sang a duet. The Red Hot Coasters were the next on the program and they were billed as an orchestra that will create shock waves around Cooper. The music is not for the heart or the body and not even the head. This orchestra consisted of the widest variety of instruments that ever had the pleasure of assembling at one time with a few melodious voices thrown in. This combination supplied music which will probably never make it to the "big time" but which was certainly most entertaining and appropriate for the occasion.

The Recyclers followed this act and they consisted of Daisy Danilow and Maisie Mufti, who would give Lamb Chop and Shari a run for their money. Madame Gigi was the next act to claim the spotlight. She was a Coloratura Soprano and sang her world-famous arrangement "A song without sound." As you can well imagine, this is no easy task and what made it even more difficult, when she hit a high note at the end of her song, or at least what was presumed to be the end of the song, she managed to break a plastic glass. Fortunately, any crystal that was present was able to withstand the vibrations.

Now came the Gini of the piano who could make magic things happen to an audience just by caressing the keys of a piano. Jeanie, with her lush playing style filled with dramatic effects, presented the 2nd movement of Opus 23 whatever that is. Twinkle Toes Dorothy followed with her

Mrs. Jean Bulley was excited about having her two granddaughters here this last weekend. The oldest of all her grandchildren, Mrs. Melonie Mulligan, was visiting from Freelon, Ontario. Oddly enough the youngest grandchild was there also: Miss Judy Breen from Dundas, Ontario. We enjoyed their company in the Pentecostal Church on Sunday Morning.

Senior Citizens of Bannockburn, please

INTRODUCING 1979

another evolutionary year for Pontiac, Buick and GMC.

PARISIENNE Full-size beauty, Pontiac style.

RIVIERA New! front wheel drive. New! independent 4-wheel suspension. New! V8 or Turbocharged V6.

It began with the totally-new full-size Pontiacs and Buicks for 1977...an evolution in concept, technology and design. It created our evolutionary mid-size cars of 1978. And now, it's on to the next stage. For 1979, Pontiac-Buick-GMC dealers proudly introduce an all-new personal luxury Riviera, completely re-designed and re-engineered. Just one of the great 1979 Buicks. Pontiac has its own news, with refinements and improvements in a distinct breed of cars for the times. While GMC offers truck people many opportunities to stretch their imagination. See the 1979 cars and trucks designed and engineered for a changing world at your Pontiac-Buick-GMC dealer.

GMC PICKUP

How about a new Pickup with an available V8 that can run on both unleaded and regular gas? Or a Pickup with a V8 Diesel option? This time, make it a GMC truck.

LeMANS

In Pontiac's class, nobody's got the magic of mid-size like LeMans. Make it a LeMans, Grand LeMans or Grand Am, Coupe, Sedan or Safari Wagon.

ACADIAN

Small car, big value. Acadian hatchbacks come with a 2-bbl. 4 cylinder overhead-cam engine, whitewall radials, reclining buckets, console and AM radio... standard!

REGAL

If you thought you'd had your last fling, drive a base, Regal, a turbo-charged Regal Sport Coupe or a Regal Limited! After all, life is to enjoy.

LeSABRE

There's really nothing quite like Buick's LeSabre, LeSabre Limited Coupes and Sedans... or the turbo-charged LeSabre Sport Coupe... or spacious Estate Wagon.

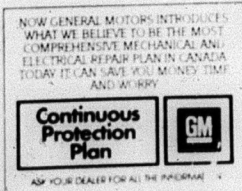

GRAND PRIX

The legend is thriving. You'll find something new to love every time you drive the inimitable Grand Prix sporty SJ or luxurious Grand Prix LJ.

Some of the equipment shown or mentioned is optional at extra cost.

Wiley-Quackenbush Wedding

Debra Deloris Wiley and Keith Ray Quackenbush were married at the Havelock Pentecostal Church Parsonage in a small family wedding on September 2, 1978.

The bride, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wiley of R.R. 3, Havelock, was dressed in a long, white nylon gown with train, veil and a red rose bouquet headpiece. The bridesmaid, Colleen Wiley, sister of the bride wore a full length polyester yellow dress, with Tudor sleeves and collar.

The groom was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Everet Quackenbush of R.R. 1, Havelock. His best man was friend Roland Naegelix of R. R. 3 Havelock.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents; a buffet style lunch was served.

The couple will be residing in Belmont township where they are building a new home.

Singers Come to Wesleyan Church

Second Nature a musical concert group, will be in the Madoc Wesleyan & Free Methodist Church on Thursday, September 28, at 7:30 p.m. Second Nature is a concert company of musician-singers who present programs of gospel music. Using music written by contemporary gospel artists as well as their own members and incorporating their own special brand of low-key sharing. Second Nature develops communication with their audiences and consequently their music evokes response. The pastor and congregation of the Wesleyan & Free Methodist Church invite the community to come and share in this concert. A free-will offering will be received.

Exchange student learns as she earns

Not many people have the opportunity to work, to learn, to earn, and to have a holiday abroad at the same time. But for Bettina Macuzzi of Havelock that's exactly what happened this summer.

Bettina's summer was spent in Fellbach, Germany; through a student work program she was able to spend part of the summer working in a commercial garden nursery and part travelling and sightseeing throughout Germany and neighbouring parts of Europe.

Bettina was one of 150 students who participated in the program. A student at the university of Guelph, she was eligible for the program because she studied German (as part of her Horticultural Science degree).

Bettina's experience was enriched by the fact that her employer - Robert Schneck and Sons Nursery and Garden Centre - was a large operation which employed over 60 workers from all over Europe. Spaniards, Italians, Czechoslovakians, Yugoslavians all worked together. In some cases the whole family would dwell on the grounds in others the men would send money home and visit their families two or three times a year.

Life at the nursery was very regimented and Bettina had to learn to fit in. Workers would rise at 6, have a snack (malt coffee, bread and jam) and then start to work at 7. Breakfast would be around 8:30 and would include fish, cheese, bread and, again malt coffee.

At noon came the big meal of the day. This was meat, potatoes and vegetables with cold peppermint tea. The workers then went from 1:00 until 5:30 without a break. The evening meal was lighter and also was served with cold peppermint tea.

The rigid schedule was, at first, very strange to Bettina and she often ended up in bed by 8:30 at first. However as time progressed she became more accustomed - and the work with flowers, shrubs and trees was valuable experience for her.

After working for nearly two and a half months Bettina was able to do some sightseeing - taking in a number of German cities as well as the Swiss and Austrian Alps.

One notable experience was the climbing of Mount Loser in Austria. A three and one half hour climb, took her to the top where she signed the guestbook (a usual feature of the mountains) and took in the view. "It was exhilarating" she bubbled, "everything looked so bright."

Another interesting site was the castle of Kaisen Franz Josef at Bad Ischl. A great hunter, Franz Josef mounted on the walls, the horns of over 2,000 mountain goats, 1,600 deer and hundreds of birds and ducks.

Bettina also remarked upon the zoo at Stuttgart, the beautiful city of Salzburg, the Autobahn and the thatched-roof houses she found in Denmark and northern Germany.

All in all Bettina considered it an all-round education. It helped her studies, let her see some of the world and gave her the opportunity to make a lot of friends. "It was real luck I was able to participate in the exchange program." Who can disagree?

Bettina Macuzzi, back in Canada after three months' absence, wearing a "dirndl", a Bavarian-Austrian costume. This outfit is still worn by a lot of women in Germany and Austria. Originally, it used to be worn as a long dress, and sometimes still is for evening wear. She is holding an "Hulpo", a hand-made wooden puppet, given to her by a new friend.

Madoc in Years Gone By

Fall Exhibition - The fall exhibition of the North Hastings Agricultural Society will be held at Lake's, Huntingdon, on Tuesday, October 15th.

Madoc Markets - Flour, per bbl. - 5.00 to 0.00; wheat, per bushel - 0.90 to 1.00; rye, per bushel - 0.48 to 0.00; oats, per bushel - 0.30 to 0.00; barley, per bushel - 0.90 to 0.00; peas, per bushel - 0.60 to 0.00; potatoes, per bushel - 0.30 to 0.00; eggs, per doz. - 0.08 to 0.00; butter, per lb. - 0.12 to 0.13; hides, per cwt. - 4.00 to 0.00.

Closing Up Business - The many friends of E.D. O'Flynn will regret to learn that owing to failing health he has decided to close up business in this village, and from this date will offer decided bargains to all who will favour him with a call. Mr. O'Flynn has been in business in this village for some twenty-eight years, and during that time has succeeded in establishing the largest most successful business establishment in Madoc, and one which we regret to see closed.

Cooper-Remington W.I.

own interpretation of solo dancing and it struck me as looking suspiciously like an Indian rain dance (and a successful one because it rained all the next day.)

The Rejects, a group of placid performers from the Mindelsohn choir, sang Mocking Bird Hill, which was followed by the singing of the Queen to end the entertainment part of the program. Mrs. Florence McCoy was the Mistress of Ceremonies and she definitely showed more of a sense of humour than she ever showed in her Grade 8 classes at school. Mrs. McCoy even told her age, a topic that many of her students used to wonder about, and it was suggested that a woman who volunteered her age should be watched very carefully because she would tell anything. Mrs. McCoy's age, by the way, is 37.

A lunch was then served and there was a certain amount of mystery involved with the menu. It read as follows: Red Sumacher, Adam's Ale, Petite Poissons a L'oeuf, Canapes aux Fromage et Olives, Three Tiers and a Sob and Black Jack. A chip off the old block would be supplied on request. All in all, it was a very entertaining program that the women of the Cooper-Remington Women's Institute can be very proud of and which will probably be talked about for the next fifty years.

Before you buy any stove, spend a few moments inside a Fisher.

Take this short guided tour through a Fisher Stove.

And see for yourself why, with scores of wood stoves on the market these days, hundreds of thousands of homeowners all over North America have chosen the Fisher.

1 Let's start at the heart of the flames for a close look at the unique secondary combustion chamber. Notice how this unusual two-step design swirls volatile gases back into the flames. This action recaptures up to two-thirds of wood's energy value, instead of wasting it up the flue. Which means wood burns almost completely, leaving very little ash.

2 Moving on down to the heavy duty cast iron triple-sealed doors, observe that there's no asbestos gasket to wear out.

3 And see the patented spin-draft controls? They let you regulate almost completely the amount of air that gets to the fire. Open them up for more heat. Or shut them almost all the way for a cooler, longer-lasting fire.

4 On your right, see how the Fisher firebox is lined with firebrick to eliminate burn out?

into every detail, we've got a full color brochure that does. It shows off all the Fisher Stove models, complete with dimensions, heating capacities, and more. And getting a copy is as easy as sending this coupon to the dealer listed below that's nearest you.

So send it in today. If you're thinking about buying a wood stove, spending a little time inside a Fisher is a good way to make sure you don't get burned.

I'd like to get more of the inside story on Fisher Stoves.

At The Madoc Fair

The rides kept the children entertained and the parents reaching into their pockets. The older people enjoyed the horse races and the sight of the Carlsberg Wagon moving around the track attracted young and old. For those who wanted something a little more sedate, there were the many exhibits to see. The dog at the right wanted to see the fair from a human eye level and the boy was willing to oblige.

Wood-fired power plants proposed for Eastern Ontario by Porter study

Wood as a source of energy and industry for Eastern Ontario was given another push last week when a consulting firm recommended to the Porter Commission that five wood-fired power plants be established in the region.

Morris Wayman Consultants, of Toronto

released last Tuesday a condensation of a report they have done for the Ontario Royal Commission on Electric Power Planning (more popularly known as the Porter Commission, after its chairman, Dr. Arthur Porter.)

The report projects that Ontario businesses would benefit to the tune of about $170 million dollars a year - money now spent importing coal and oil for power plants. It claims to show that the costs of deriving electricity from wood would be the same as from the fossil fuels. And wood is a renewable resource while coal and oil are not.

The key to this technology are the much-discussed hybrid poplars which have been developed in recent years. In seven years these trees can grow to 10 metres (34 feet) - the height and thickness of a normal 77-year-old tree. Establishing of plantations of these trees would also become a major industry in the area. The report says that land availability is not a problem since there are presently 1.7 million acres unproductive rural land in Eastern Ontario. "Wood fired electricity generation will rehabilitate an extensive depressed rural area, and replenish the earth of Eastern Ontario."

According to the report the construction of the plantations and power stations will take 15 years and would employ 10,000 people. 3,200 to 3,600 people would be employed after construction is completed if the Ontario government approves the project.

The total capital cost of the project would be about 1.4 billion, or $100,000 per job. The money would pay for the lease or outright purchase of land, the planting and cultivation of the fast-growing poplars, and the construction of the five power plants.

The new power plants would also attract other industries dependent on wood the report speculates. These would include pulp and paper, textile and plastic. The cattle industry could also be built up, since poplar leaves are rich in protein and make excellent cattle feed.

THESE TWELVE GIRLS were the contestants for Norwood Fair Queen. Eventual winner was Lori Oliver, 18, third from left in this photo. Lori is a graduate of Norwood District Highschool and was sponsored by the Norwood Fire Department. The Fair

Queen Ball was held at Centennial sports Complex

Saddle Your Dreams

by Naomi Wakan

Please be sure to include a few details of the day on which your dream occurred since they may give a clue to what triggered the dream.

Dear Naomi Wakan

I seem to be taking notice of everyone but myself these days. I dreamed I was in a toyshop with my husband. I liked everything but he found fault with each doll or toy. As he did, I began to see the flaws too. I felt very discouraged.

Later I saw a cat which was frozen. I ran over to stroke it and as I stroked it, it became a little girl with a balloon over her head. The balloon grew until it burst. I was horrified but the little girl was fine.

suggested interpretation: often we are so influenced by other people's opinions we get our own distorted. This must have happened to you as a child. The little girl in you must have become very angry, although she couldn't express her own feelings. Her mouth was frozen but the feelings still welled up inside and she must have felt her head swelling and wanting to burst, like the child in your dream. Most people feel blocked from their real selves and are afraid to break out but, as you see in the dream, once you do everything will be fine.

Here are dreams from two confused people:

Dear Naomi Wakan

I'm involved in a very confusing relationship. I dreamed I was back at university where I had two particular associates. In the dream I am trying to remember a third person, similar to the first two. When I wake up I realise that that person didn't exist. I was very puzzled.

suggested interpretation: Obviously there is something missing from your relationship and maybe it is the same thing that was missing from your university association. Looking back at that time may give you a clue.

Dear Naomi Wakan,

Lately I can't seem to do what I'm supposed to be doing when I'm doing it. I'm always in three places at once. I have a dream where I go to Toronto to visit a friend. I find his house and there are a number of small obstacles that delay me but finally I find him and we are glad to see each other. There are a lot of other people there and I get the whole group into a meditation where we are lying in a circle on the floor with our hands and feet joined. At first the women are very silly and won't concentrate. Then, very quickly, everything goes gray, there is a gunshot sound and I see a small disc of gold light.

suggested interpretation: Well, I take it by now that the confusion is cleared, for this is what we call a birth dream. These dreams come when we reach the ultimate of confusion. The grey you mention usually appears before some kind of breakthrough and the gunshot is like the balloon bursting in the first dream - a sign of heralding the break-out from confusion. Often in confused times our mind turns to wise people we knew in the past, seeking out our clarity in theirs. Lying in a circle with all those different people means that you are gathering all the fragmented parts of you into a whole. Its only when we're "all together" that we can move forward.

Festival

The combination of beef and barley makes an excellent soup, but they are also the ingredients that make for a first-rate show at the annual Beef and Barley Festival Oct. 4-9 at Russell, Manitoba.

The prairie town is home of outstanding cattle breeders and award-winning barley growers, so it's natural for this kind of celebration!

The yearly festival is packed with a variety of events.

The Western Canada Home Made Beer Contest is one of the most popular, with contestants vying for honors in the light and dark beer categories.

Other popular events and attractions include a cribbage tournament, a continuous curling bonspiel at the Russell Curling Club, and the Barley Barrel Beer Garden.

There will also be a square dance jamboree, and a soap box derby for the youngsters.

One of the best barley growing areas in western Canada is located northeast of Russell near the village of Inglis, which lays claim to being Manitoba's Barley Capital, having won national barley competitions for many years.

HOW MANY TYPES OF HEAT ... OR HEATERS OTHER THAN A TEMPWOOD CAN PAY THEIR WAY OVER ONE WINTER?

The answer is, all too few. Skyrocketing conventional fuel costs, costs of installing solar, wind and tidal alternative systems are almost prohibitive, and even prices on many wood stoves have reached an inflationary stage.

The Tempwood, meanwhile still sells for under $300. This durable and amazingly simple stove turns out as many as 55,000 BTU's per hour. Many owners report that it is heating six and seven room houses.

So think of the Tempwood Stove, not as a decorative little luxury to have around the house or cabin, but as a viable, reliable heat source that can do wonders by reducing your heat costs.

At the schoolhouse

by Naomi Wakan

Today we had a Japanese dance workshop. I was very excited for I love many things Japanese and was anxious to see if I could move to their music. We were also intrigued since amongst the students coming was a Japanese. He was driving up from the States especially to learn his native dances. And come he did. At midnight we are woken by confused voices and hastily dressing, we greet at the door a rather inebriated person and an elderly Japanese gentleman. Apparently he lost his way and is perfectly at ease as I make up an unexpected bed for him; and he doesn't bat an eye lid when confronted by yoghurt, bran and sesame seeds for breakfast the next morning.

Our teacher arrived with three very lovely young ladies, who switch from T shirts and Jeans to kimonos, and present for our pleasure some classical and folk dances. We are eager to try and leap up; our bodies sadly contrasting with the gentle limbs and delicate hands of the girls. However, they are very patient whilst we try to mime a miner and are very patient whilst we try to be a geisha looking for her lover and still very patient whilst I accidentally scratch the dancer behind me with my cherry blossom twig; and again very patient whilst we try to exemplify peace and union. And, their patience is rewarded for, by the end of the day we had almost mastered five new dances.

It was hard for us to learn to keep our faces mask-like and just let little gusts of emotion out through our eyes; to discipline our limbs to express nuances. Our one Japanese student has fared much the same as us. He has over-laid most of his Japanese soul with that of a New England gentleman whilst we struggled through layers of Western conditioning to reach the Oriental dancer hiding in her Pavilion somewhere in the corner of our hearts.

Story of CPR

A new miniature exhibition at The Empress Hotel, Victoria, British Columbia graphically tells the story of the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway from Vancouver in 1885, advancing eastward to Canada's Atlantic provinces in the year 1915.

Two years in creation, it is believed to be one of the longest, largest, and most challenging miniature, three-dimensional scenes ever made.

It measures over 33m (110 feet) in length, and covers the highlights of the many problems and hardships encountered during construction of the railway.

Realistic lifelike settings of the land, settlements, towns and cities of each era have been portrayed with emphasis on exact detail and authenticity.

An automated replica of the early steam locomotive and passenger coaches used by the CPR chugs continuously across the country.

A timed day-night sequence illustrates the approach of dusk and the arrival of night across the land, when the sky comes alive with stars and the towns and villages twinkle with lights in pioneer homes.

Incidentally, The Empress was one of the landmark hotels built by the Canadian Pacific Railway in Canada.

Museums of Western Development

The largest indoor Main Street in North America, a seven-metre-high (23 feet) Mountie and the largest gas tractor in the world are only three of the thousands of items to be admired in Saskatchewan's four Museums of Western Development.

The provincially-operated museums are open year-round and are situated in Saskatoon, North Battleford, Yorkton and Moose Jaw.

The first three are on the Yellowhead Highway, while Moose Jaw is on the Trans-Canada Highway, just 71 km (44 miles) west of Regina, the provincial capital. It can be said that all four museums have been created in Saskatchewan's image: low, sprawling and packed with interest.

The chief attraction at the Saskatoon museum is undoubtedly Boom Town 1910, the largest indoor pioneer street on this continent. Most visitors entering the museum climb to the balcony of the Hotel Saskatchewan for a better look at this fascinating street, which extends all the way to the railroad station. Parked permanently in front of the hotel is an ancient omnibus while down the street is an old buggy that once belonged to merchant Timothy Eaton, founder of the T. Eaton Co.

The Palace Theatre, with its double doors and ticket wicket, shows silent or historical movies. Outside the theatre, on this "inside" street, a piano player attracts movie-goers.

The old schoolhouse has two outdoor toilets marked "boys" and "girls", each with its Eaton's and Simpson's catalogues within easy reach of the seats.

The bank has an 1885 safe while the original St. Peter's Church was brought intact from the town of Young, more than 80 km (50 miles) to the east.

At the North Battleford museum, the huge statue of a Mountie on his black horse is a real traffic stopper and is credited with much of the success the museum is having. Floodlit at night, it draws motorists like a magnet but it is only a small part of what there is to see in and around the museum.

There are more than 20 buildings in Saskatchewan's first authentic pioneer village outside the large museum building. All the buildings in the village are furnished in turn-of-the-century styles.

The village includes a Ukrainian and a French-Canadian house, as well as a barber shop, a Co-op store, a railroad station with locomotive and car, a one-room school and a thatched house.

Inside the museum building, one section tells the evolution of farm machinery from the most primitive hand tools to the monstrous mechanized machines of recent years.

The Yorkton museum has several rooms showing how early Ukrainian, German, English and French-Canadian settlers lived.

An extensive collection of early farm machinery includes the first model of the horse-drawn eight-foot Morris rod weeder, the largest gas tractor in the world, plows, steam engines, threshers and harvest equipment.

There are also a genuine Indian teepee, an original birch bark canoe and a Red River cart.

At Moose Jaw, the accent is on transportation, from dog sleds to airplanes. The display also shows trains, snowmobiles, motorcycles, cars and a ferryboat.

More than half the space is reserved for aviation and the museum has a wide variety of other items on display.

The Moose Jaw museum is the last of the four Western Development Museums to be built. It, like the other three, has ample parking space and a well-stocked souvenir shop.

The museums are open daily the year round.

UNFOUNDED Fears

People afraid that they will be among the three out of four elderly Americans with cataract should take heart. It is usually a curable disease. Safe and simple surgery is available and overwhelmingly successful in most cases.

People who are afraid of losing their vision can be reassured by this statement from The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness: Half of the blindness that occurs is preventable, given the right medical attention and proper safety precautions.

For a free booklet, "Cataract—What It Is And How It Is Treated," write to The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, SN, 79 Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10016.

How can you know the jars of baby food you buy have the fresh quality you expect for your child?

When parents ask me that question, I tell them that one of the best ways is to look for the safety button on the cap.
If the circle is concave or depressed, it indicates the vacuum is intact. If the vacuum is lost for any reason,
the safety button on the cap will be raised. Be sure to check each jar of baby food you buy.

Another way to determine freshness is to look for a statement on top of the baby food caps that says, "For better quality use by date below." Gerber was the first baby food company to introduce the Quality-Dating system. They also stamp cereals and bakery products with the line, "Better if used before," and the date on the side of the package.

These two Gerber packaging features are your assurance of high quality foods for your baby.

Timber Sales

Selling timber is similar to selling farm crops except for two major points. Unlike the harvesting of wheat or corn, after merchantable trees are cut, a stand of young trees may remain which can grow into the next crop. Care must be taken to prevent damage to these remaining young trees. In addition, standing timber volumes can be estimated in various units and so the seller must decide how the wood is to be measured as well as the logging system to be used.

The Ministry of Natural Resources through its landowner assistance program can help you market your mature trees. A volume estimate of your woodlot and a price range based on current market conditions as well as recommendations regarding control of logging practices are part of the services available. The Ministry will also advertise your woodlot or give you a list of local buyers to contact.

The Ministry of Natural Resources personnel cannot, however, negotiate the actual timber sale and you should retain a solicitor to draw up the sale contract. To aid him, as he may not have the technical background in forestry and logging, we have prepared a checklist of points to be considered when preparing the contract:

1) The agreement should specify the forest products for sale.

2) A description of the sale area should include the lots involved in whole or in part, concession and township. A map of the area is often desirable.

3) The owner on his part should guarantee title to the forest products. The method of payment should be detailed.

5) A lump sum sale is recommended in most instances as the seller obtains the best possible price and the logger is encouraged to avoid wasteful practices.

6) The owner should guarantee freedom of entry and right-of-way to the sale area.

7) A specific date should be established by which the purchaser agrees to remove the logs or have them revert to the owner.

This will discourage speculative buying.

8) The Ministry, as the owners advisor, marks the trees to be cut with yellow paint at breast height (4½ feet above ground) and on the stump. The contract should specify that the purchaser is to fell only those trees so marked.

9) A specified fine for any unmarked trees cut is necessary to enforce the agreement and should not be construed as authority for cut unmarked trees on payment of the fine.

10) Controls on skidding (removal of the trees from where they are felled to a landing or trucking point) are necessary to prevent undue damage to remaining trees. Conditions may be made to the effect that skidding must be done in log lengths only - these being lengths of 24 feet or shorter.

11) Further cutting controls should insure that all limbs, tops and slash are well lopped to encourage rotting and avoid any fire hazards. Stump heights should not exceed 12 inches. Also removal of tops, logs and slash from roads, trails and adjoining property should be clearly indicated.

12) The purchaser should take all precautions to prevent and suppress forest fires on the sale area.

13) The purchaser should agree to carry Public Liability, Property Damage and Workman's Compensation Insurance for the duration of the Contract.

14) Conditions should be specified for the removal of stables, portable camps, other temporary facilities and refuse from the sale area after operations are completed.

15) There should be a guarantee that the purchaser will repair any damage caused by logging operations to any fence, road, bridge or utility on the sale area or on adjoining property.

16) The purchaser should deposit a sum of money with the owner to be returned on completion of the agreement as a guarantee of good performance.

17) A clause to prevent the buyer from sub-contracting or re-selling the agreement should be considered.

18) The owner should not be held liable for theft of the sold timber either standing or cut.

19) The owner must retain the right to inspect the cutting operations from time to time and to order the cessation of all work if any violation of the agreement occurs. DID YOU KNOW?

Now is the time to scout and locate potential crops of tree seed which may be bought by the Ministry of Natural Resources this fall. Species required may be red pine, tamarac, white ash, basswood, sugar maple, white spruce and cedar. Check with the nearest Ministry office and obtain a contract before collecting any seed.

SHARPTAIL HUNT IN MANITOBA

The annual one-box sharptail hunt will once again bring together sharpshooting buffs to Ashern, Manitoba Sept. 29-Oct. 7 for one of the most prestigious hunting events in North America.

Competing teams will be allowed only one box each (20 shells per box).

Scoring regulations will give three points for each sharptailed grouse brought in, two points for a ruffed grouse, and one point for each spruce grouse.

Sharpshooters are expected from Alberta, Ontario, Manitoba, Nebraska, Illinois, Louisiana, Iowa, and Kansas.

The winning team will receive a large trophy to keep until next year, while smaller trophies will be awarded to each participant on the team.

Highlights of this year's event include a trap shoot at the sharptail range and a victory banquet and dance.

GATEWAY TO THE KAWARTHAS

The handsome city of Peterborough, Ontario lies in the heart of south central Ontario and is the gateway to one of Canada's largest recreational areas--the beautiful Kawartha Lakes.

At Little Lake in the heart of the city, you can enjoy the thrills of high-powered boating events. The Centennial Fountain can be seen in the middle of the lake while band concerts and the Arts and Water Festival perform at Point St. Charles park.

There are several golf courses in and around the city, two of which are of championship calibre, and with the Kawarthas and the Trent Canal on its doorstep, every aspect of boating fun is within minutes.

These same waters teem with the fighting game fish that all anglers love--giant maskinonge and smallmouth bass, along with the fine-eating walleyed pike or pickerel.

City motto is The Smilin's Easy at Peterborough.

Far up in northern Manitoba stands a 200-year-old fort as strong now as on the day it was completed in either 1771 or 1772.

Its outer walls are 12m (40 feet) thick and its cannons point out in all directions, protecting a piece of Canadian history from nothing more than Arctic skies.

Called "the preposterous fortress of the north" by Parks Canada which administers the site as a national historic park, it stands on a rocky promontory overlooking Hudson Bay, directly across from the deep-sea port of Churchill.

On Aug. 8, 1782, Samuel Hearne, the governor of the fort, looked out over the ramparts and saw three ships flying French flags approaching.

His decision to surrender was quick and prudent. He was short of men and supplies--and the French took over without so much as a single shot being fired.

Today, from its raised 40-gun gallery, you can gaze at the giant grain elevators where large ocean freighters from around the world drop anchor during Churchill Harbor's annual four-month shipping season.

The fort can be reached by boat or canoe in summer, or by dogsled or snowmobile in winter.

New program to help small town cores

A new program to help small Ontario communities initiate improvements to their core areas has been announced by Housing Minister Claude Bennett.

Called the Main Street Revitalization Program, it will be complementary to the province's successful Downtown Revitalization Program, but is designed to help communities with a population of 30,000 or less. (The Downtown Revitalization Program is aimed at municipalities with a population of up to 125,000.)

"We see this new program spurring communities to help themselves by taking advantage of existing Business Improvement Area (BIA) legislation to upgrade their downtowns," Bennett said.

The BIA concept is a device whereby merchants and business people can designate and tax themselves for improvements to streetscapes and related facilities.

Since smaller towns often lack the capability to generate the front-end funding necessary for initiating improvement projects under the BIA approach, the provincial government will provide low-interest loans of up to $150,000 to help the community improve and beautify municipally-owned lands and building in eligible areas.

Bennett explained that the province had several objectives in mind in proceeding with the program.

"In the first place we want to encourage and support downtown improvement projects started by municipalities "and by business improvement areas in these communities," he said.

"We also wish to promote co-ordination and joint planning of comprehensive downtown improvement projects by the municipalities themselves, by business groups and by the community at large.

"Finally, we want to approach should keep provincial funding at reasonable levels."

In addition to having a project which conforms with provincial policies, a municipality, in order to be eligible for assistance, must have:

--a population of 30,000 or less at the date of formal application;
--an approved official plan;
--a property maintenance provision of parking. In all cases, these aspects would be additions to on-going expenses of the municipality at large.)

The maximum provincial funding will be $150,000 with no more than two-thirds of the funding eligible for parking projects.

Total provincial recovery for the loan would be 110 per cent over a maximum 10-year period. This approach enables a business improvement area to earmark a portion of its approved annual budget for the repayment of the provincial funds.

Deadline for applications for 1978-79 provincial funding is Jan. 31, 1979. This date was selected to enable interested business improvement areas develop sound proposals and to have the necessary budgets approved by local councils.

After that date, municipal applications will be reviewed on a first come, first served basis subject to the availability of provincial funds. The Main Street Program has a total budget of $5 million until Mar. 31, 1981.

Bennett said that in reviewing applications his ministry would base decisions on local need, project viability, the degree of municipal council commitment and local response, timing of implementation and conformity with provincial policies.

Guidelines on the program are now being forwarded to all eligible municipalities and ministry staff are now prepared to discuss administration with local officials.

How a Business Improvement Area (BIA) can contribute to the attractiveness of a municipality's established downtown is illustrated by the smart lamp standards and tree plantings in this St. Thomas BIA.

demonstrate provincial commitment and support for the existence of viable and attractive downtowns in small Ontario communities."

Bennett stressed that this new program was designed to help small communities help themselves.

"This new Main Street approach should help overcome local resistance because of the inability to obtain long-term funding," he said.

"Once that funding is provided, on-going commitments can be obtained from the participants and provincial funding would no longer be necessary. This and occupancy standards bylaw;

--municipal council commitment and public support for the revitalization proposal;

--an active business improvement area under section 361 of the Municipal Act as well as a downtown project proposed under section 361(1) of the Municipal Act;
--demonstrated financial and administrative resources.

Eligible costs include improvements and beautification of municipally-owned lands, buildings and other structures in an eligible business improvement area, and for the

Gander

By CLAUDE R. LEMIEUX

Gander, Newfoundland, is probably the best-known town in that province and possibly more world leaders have set foot there than in most Canadian cities.

The reason is simple. At one time, not so long ago, nearly all planes flying across the Atlantic made their first or last stop at Gander Airport, still a very large airport by world standards.

Newfoundland is closer to Europe than any other part of North America so anyone wishing to fly across the ocean, when planes had a more limited range, naturally chose it as the departure point.

In 1935, when Newfoundland was still a British colony and not yet a Canadian province, the British Air Ministry chose Gander, a relatively fog-free place, as the site of a future transatlantic air base.

Three years later, it was ready and soon wartime saw an incredible number of planes land, take-off and sometimes crash at Gander.

Such famous aviation pioneers as Charles Lindbergh, Amelia Earheart, Italo Balbo, Eddie Rickenbacker and many others have been associated with the great airport while it is from the province's capital, St. John's, that Alcock and Brown made the first successful flight across the ocean.

Once known as the "Crossroads of the World," Gander Airport is still a busy one and its striking terminal building is well worth a visit.

Besides its beautiful 22-metre (70-foot) long mural, the airport building also houses a fascinating Aviation Exhibit that contains models, artifacts and photographs pertaining to pioneer aviation over the Atlantic.

Aviation buffs of all ages can spend hours reliving the flying adventures of their dreams and memory.

The air terminal building also has restaurants, a huge bar and lounge as well as a well-stocked gift shop.

In the bogs and forest around the airport are the remains of several ill-fated bombers and other planes that never made it overseas during the last war.

Gander, 343 km (213 miles) from St. John's, the capital, is a modern town of nearly 10,000 with good hotels, restaurants and shopping facilities.

It is less than a one-hour drive along the panoramic Trans-Canada Highway to Terra Nova National Park and an even shorter drive to Lewisporte and its fine bluefin tuna fishing in Notre Dame Bay.

Gander is served several times a day by air and it is 573 km (356 miles) from the CN ferry terminal at Port-aux-Basques.

For more information on Newfoundland as a travel destination, contact the Canadian Government Office of Tourism, Ottawa, Canada K1A 0H6.
